

Autopsy Ordered Today To Determine Cause Of Two Deaths

Authorities Continuing Investigation

An autopsy will be performed today to determine why two childhood sweethearts celebrating their first wedding anniversary here died mysteriously in an Arlington Heights cottage.

The couple, Joseph and Alice Sielski, both 29, of Jersey City, were found dead in a rented vacationers cottage at 719 Rosemont Ave. Sunday afternoon by Clarence A. Hassinger, owner of the cottage and operator of the Beaver House.

Up to last night—more than four days after they were last seen alive—police had found no evidence in support of suicide or murder.

In response to a teletype message to Jersey City police, three of Sielski's brothers arrived from that city yesterday morning to talk with Pfc. Don Henzey and Pfc. Ed Beneski, investigators from the Stroudsburg State police substation.

The brothers could offer no clue to the deaths.

Two of them, John and William, and another brother unnamed by police, said the Sielskis had never had any marital troubles and were both satisfied with their jobs.

Joseph was a brakeman in the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad yards at Hoboken, N. J., while Alice was employed in a department of the American Can Co. in Jersey City.

The director of Kwiatkowski Brothers funeral home in Jersey City reported that the victims' parents were just as much at a loss as the Sielski brothers.

Joseph's father, Joseph Sielski Sr., said the two had been childhood sweethearts who had lived within a block of each other in Jersey City all their lives, up to the time of their marriage.

War had interrupted the couple's plans. Joseph was a corporal in an Army tank corps who spent some three years fighting in Italy and on the Sigfried Line. He was discharged in 1945.

The two were married at St. Anthony's Church in Jersey City on May 5, a year ago, the father said.

He told the funeral director they spent their honeymoon in the same cottage where they were found dead Sunday. Mr. Sielski's statement was not borne out by police, however, who said the couple had honeymooned "in the vicinity" but not in the same place.

Sielski Sr. said Joseph and Alice owned their own car and had a "beautiful apartment" at 357 York St., Jersey City, and had just finished painting two of the rooms in it.

They arranged to have their week-long vacations together, according to Sielski Sr., and planned a "second honeymoon" in celebration of their first anniversary.

They left Jersey City in their car Thursday morning, according to the father, and were in high spirits at the time.

The Sielskis checked in at the Beaver House at about 4:30 p.m. Thursday. Joseph paid a week in advance for the four-room house-keeping cottage.

The couple unpacked at the cottage. Their clothing and effects were hung in closets and placed in the bureau drawers.

About 8 p.m. they appeared at the Beaver House for a steak dinner. Hassinger told police the pair behaved in a normal, ordinary fashion, and he had no reason to suspect any trouble between them. It was the last time they were seen alive, police said.

Hassinger told police one of his women employees went to the cottage Saturday morning with a supply of fresh linen.

No one responded to her knocking, and she went away again, rather than "disturb" the couple.

Sunday, police said, Hassinger took it upon himself to deliver the linen. He too knocked, and no one answered. He circled the cottage and looked in through a bedroom window. On the bed he saw the couple.

Police said Hassinger climbed in to the cottage through an unlatched, partially-opened window and opened the door. It had been locked from the inside, police said. Hassinger then called police and sent for Dr. Charles Rushmore.

Police said Hassinger saw no evidence of struggle or violence when he entered the bedroom.

The cottage has a living room, bedroom, kitchen and dining room, police said.

Mrs. Sielski had washed and hung up some lingerie before going to bed, police said. In the kitchen is a gas stove, serviced by the borough's regular gas lines. Police said Hassinger told them the jets were turned off when he entered and there was no odor of gas in the cottage.

In the bathroom a tube of toothpaste lay on the wash basin. In the empty basin lay a capped bottle. On a shelf over the basin a glass tumbler lay on its side.

Steel Talks Collapse; Union Spurns New Offer

Washington (AP)—Steel peace talks collapsed last night and the White House said industry and union had reached a "complete deadlock."

Reds Taunt Allies For Staying Talks

Munson, Korea (AP)—The Red high command in a letter to Gen. Mark Clark yesterday taunted the Allies for declaring a recess in the Korean truce talks now entering their 11th month.

Contents of the letter were broadcast by the Peiping radio early today. It was signed by Gen. Kim Il Sung, premier of North Korea, and Chinese Gen. Peng Teh-huai.

"If you wish to break up the talks by this tactic, you should do it officially and take full responsibility for it," said the broadcast. "You should know that what you cannot get on the battlefield you cannot get at the conference site."

The United Nations Command declared a three-day recess Saturday after listening repeatedly to Communist harangues charging mistreatment of Red prisoners. The Reds didn't agree to the recess.

Maj. Gen. William K. Harrison, senior Allied delegate, told the Reds that unless they would offer specific proposals in writing for breaking the deadlock, the U. N. team would not return to Panmunjom until 11 a.m. Wednesday (10 p.m., EDT, Tuesday).

Britain Lifts Blockade Of Reds' Radio Berlin

Berlin (AP)—The British last night announced the lifting of a seven-day armed blockade of Russia's Radio Berlin headquarters.

Barbed wire barricades surrounding the station, which is located deep in West Berlin, were ordered taken down at midnight.

Western commandants in Berlin approved the British decision at an urgent meeting yesterday afternoon. The decision, which came on the heels of some minor Soviet gestures of reconciliation, disappointed anti-Communist Germans who had hoped the Russians would be expelled permanently from the station.

But the Western commandants took the view that the blockade was a weapon that might boomerang dangerously if continued longer. They agreed the blockade was a limited operation which had achieved most of its aims in easing Soviet pressure on the border of Berlin, and could be used again in the future if the situation worsened.

Maj. Gen. C. F. C. Coleman, the British commandant, ordered the Royal Scots infantrymen and military police to remove the barbed wire which had sealed off the 750-room Soviet "island" in West Berlin since early last Tuesday.

He notified Soviet Political Chief Sergei Dengin of his order, which leaves the Soviet tommy-gun detachment guarding Radio Berlin free to leave or re-enter

MacArthur Likely Choice As Keynote

By The Associated Press

Taft and Eisenhower forces fight it out today over control of the Republican National Convention machinery and the selection of Gen. Douglas MacArthur to deliver its keynote address. MacArthur seemed likely to draw the speaking assignment.

Except for occasional oratory and hand-shaking sorties, Democrats for the most part were in a pre-convention lull. The next big event is a state convention Friday at which Connecticut Democrats are expected to put 16 favorite-son votes in the pocket of Sen. Brien McMahon.

The Republican showdown comes at a meeting in Chicago of the committee making arrangements and picking the officials for the party convention to be held there starting July 7.

Backers of Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio said the committee would be asked to pick MacArthur to give the Republican-praising Democrat-baiting rallying speech that is supposed to set the tone of the convention and campaign.

Supporters of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower were resisting MacArthur for keynote on grounds the role should go to somebody with a more neutral approach to rival candidates. But they admitted Taft people outnumbered them on the arrangements committee and were in a position to have things pretty much their own way.

Ship To Carry British A-Bomb To Australia

Portsmouth, Eng. (AP)—The aircraft carrier Campania will leave port today with Britain's first atom bomb, to be tested this Summer off the northwest coast of Australia.

Reliable informants confirmed that components of the bomb have been placed aboard the closely guarded 15,000-ton vessel. They said the Campania would call at Gibraltar and Fremantle enroute to the test site in the Montebelle Islands.

The Campania carried no planes, only the bomb and quantities of highly secret equipment.

U.S. Relaxes Real Estate Credit Curbs

Washington, (AP)—The government relaxed real estate credit controls yesterday to permit lower down payments on new houses.

The biggest concessions were made for houses costing less than $7,000 or more than $25,000.

Changes in down payments for dwellings in the $8,000 to $15,000 bracket were called very disappointing, however, by a big group of construction men, the National Association of Home Builders.

The Federal Reserve Board announced that, starting Wednesday, down payment requirements will be lowered as follows:

On housing costing $7,000 or less, from 10 per cent to 5 per cent. Thus the amount of cash down on a $7,000 house will drop from $700 to $350.

On houses costing $25,000 or more, from 50 per cent to 40 per cent. On a $25,000 house, that's a drop from $12,500 to $10,000.

On houses costing from $8,000 to $15,000, from the present rising scale of 15 to 25 per cent to a new range of 11.9 to 24.7 per cent. For a $12,000 house, the cut will be from $2,400 down to $2,350. The builders' association called this $50 reduction "insignificant."

Ex-servicemen able to buy with a mortgage guaranteed by the Veterans Administration (V. A.) will continue to get better terms under the veterans' preference Congress has written into law.

For veterans, no down-payment at all will be required after today for houses costing under $7,000, although closing costs, an item of $100 to $200 for title search, registration fees and so on, must be paid in cash. A 4 per cent down payment has been required.

Veterans will be able to get by with a down payment of 35 per cent, against the old 45 per cent, on $25,000-up houses they can buy with V. A. mortgage aid. On houses costing $8,000 to $15,000, vets' down payments will be 4.8 to 17 per cent against 6 to 23 per cent before.

Time limits for paying off mortgages will remain the same: 25 years for houses valued under $12,000, and 20 years for higher priced property. Veterans, however, can have up to 30 years if the V. A. finds a shorter period would cause them hardship.

The down payment cuts for houses are the first permitted by the government since it put real estate credit controls into effect Sept. 1, 1951, to hold down use of scarce materials and help prevent inflation.

Rain, Wind Black Out Many Homes

New York (AP)—A flash rain-storm with winds up to 84 miles an hour swept over the New York metropolitan area yesterday, knocking two persons and stopping electricity to tens of thousands of homes.

The gusty winds blew a 225-pound man off a four-story Manhattan roof to his death. Off Long Island a fisherman drowned when the wind-whipped waves capsized his rowboat.

The other men were blown from a scaffolding at Long Beach and critically injured.

Thousands of trees were downed. Many were strung across residential streets.

Th Long Island Lighting Co. reported that fallen wires had knocked out 90 per cent of its electrical service in an area of 800,000 population.

In Newark, N. J., the storm knocked the temperatures down from this year's high of 90 to 70 degrees in only a few minutes.

Power failure stopped production in manufacturing plants.

Liner On New Trial Run

Aboard the SS United States At Sea, (AP)—The giant new superliner United States sliced through the waters of the Atlantic yesterday in performance trials her builders are sure will rate her as the fastest passenger vessel afloat.

Her white superstructure gleaming in the morning haze, the 70-million-dollar soon-to-be crowned queen of the U.S. merchant marine gradually unleashed her 165,000 horsepower at the start of an eight-hour full-power run of 150 miles east of Cape Henry, Va.

She showed her heels to a naval flotilla carrying midshipmen on a summer cruise to Europe and steamed on eastward.

The massive four propellers thrust through the calm seas at a speed of more than 30 knots, but there was surprisingly little wake churned up by the 53,290-ton vessel. Her graceful 990-foot hull—the length of three football fields with something left over—is so designed that she slips through the sea with a minimum of disturbance.

If the Maritime Administration approves of her performance on this run and accepts the ship, the United States will make her maiden voyage July 3 from New York to Southampton and LeHavre with 2,000 passengers and a crew of half that number.

U.S. Troops Empty Compound 76, Nip Mass Escape Plot

Koje Island, Korea (AP)—Tough American paratroopers of the "Angels from Hell" combat team today emptied Compound 76 of its 6,000 Communist prisoners of war in bloody fighting, burned the compound to the ground, and clapped its leaders in solitary confinement.

The Reds lost an estimated 24 to 30 killed and 136 wounded.

Two Americans were killed, one by a concussion grenade that fell short, and 13 were wounded.

Inside the wrecked and bloodsoaked compound, U. S. intelligence officers found a master plan to liberate all of the 80,000 prisoners of war on this island of hate and death. The Reds had planned to seize the island, about 25 miles long and 15 miles wide off Southeast Korea, and turn Allied guns on their captors.

A 50-foot long tunnel lined with plywood walls and containing blowers to air condition it, was found leading toward nearby Compound 77.

Some 6,800 prisoners of war in Compound 78, across the road from 76, offered no resistance when they were marched out to new quarters starting at noon. Prisoners in Compound 77 were scheduled to be moved tomorrow.

The grim lesson of 76 had taken hold.

The snarling and defiant Reds fought from trenches and buildings with spears and swords forged in their illegal blacksmith shops. They ignored an order to move out of the compound peacefully.

The paratroopers stormed into 76 shortly after daybreak. Cowboy yells from the Americans and an eerie chant from the Communists mixed with the popping of concussion grenades, the swish of tear gas rockets and heavier explosions of Communist gasoline dumps.

The North Korean leader, Col. Lee Hak Woo, surrendered meekly after 20 minutes. He was "freely walked" on his hands and legs to solitary confinement. So were about 10 other leaders.

The fighting broke out at 6 a. m. (5 p.m. EDT, Monday) when the paratroopers charged into Compound 76 to move the defiant prisoners of war to new smaller unit quarters.

The POWs had been given 15 minutes to assemble for the transfer.

Instead they swarmed into hastily dug trenches and started fighting with spears and crude swords.

The prisoners set fire to tents and buildings in the compounds as two battalions of the 187th Airborne Regimental Combat Team crashed into the compound.

The paratroopers hurled concussion grenades and tear gas rockets as they swept down on the barricades with bare bayonets.

The concussion grenades exploded in gasoline stores the prisoners had hoarded for the battle.

Wooden buildings blew up. Prisoners locked themselves in others.

The Americans chopped holes through the walls, then they tossed in the concussion grenades among the tightly packed prisoners.

The prisoners struck back with crude swords and spears forged in the compound blacksmith shops.

The fighting in the trenches was a wild melee.

The Americans leaped into ditches among the prisoners. They jammed bayonets into those who resisted.

Some of the wounded POWs kept on fighting as long as they could move.

Reports from within the compound said the Red leaders themselves had killed some prisoners who refused to stand against the charging Americans.

The compound was littered with groaning wounded. Dead were strewn over the field.

The paratroopers set up first aid stations inside the compound. Medical corpsmen rushed wounded Americans and POWs to doctors who gave first aid.

The prisoners were taken by surprise. They had been set for a charge through the compound's main gate. Instead, the paratroopers tore through the barbed wire fences on the sides of the camp.

Brig. Gen. Hayden L. (Bull) Boatner, tough commander sent to the camp less than one month ago to restore Allied control inside its 17 unruly prisoner compounds, directed today's operation from a command post overlooking the compound.

It was the showdown against the toughest of all Red POW compounds.

Senate Sends Foreign Aid Bill To HST

Washington (AP)—The Senate passed a $6,447,730,750 foreign aid bill yesterday and sent it to the White House for President Truman's signature.

The big mutual security program was authorized by a roll-call vote of 59 to 11. Ten Republicans and one Democrat—Sen. Olin Johnston of South Carolina—voted no.

A compromise of two different bills passed previously by the Senate and House, the new legislation authorizes $4,598,000,000 in direct military aid to nations lined up with the United States against Communist aggression and threats of aggression.

This is aid in the form of aircraft, tanks, guns and other weapons of war.

It also authorizes $1,805,000,000 in economic assistance to countries cooperating in the mutual security program. Bills actually appropriating the money for the fiscal year starting July 1 will be offered later this session. They may be sharply debated.

Congress trimmed about $1,450,000,000 out of the administration's appropriation before approving it. The House passed the compromise bill by a 230 to 115 vote last week.

pounds—one that previously had shown fiery defiance against every Allied order.

The heaviest fighting lasted 42 minutes. Prisoners in two nearby compounds watched the fighting. They were scheduled to be moved next.

Boatner said he did not plan to isolate the Red leaders immediately but would segregate them later.

Boatner warned the prisoners by loudspeaker to assemble for the transfer. He gave them 15 minutes.

When it became obvious the Reds were not going to obey his order, Boatner telephoned Brig. Gen. Thomas J. H. Trappell, commander of the 187th Airborne Combat Team.

"Trap," he said, "we've given them more than 15 minutes. Move up to Phase Line A and hold it until I call you."

"They intend to resist," Boatner told correspondents. "I had hopes this wouldn't happen. I never thought they would do that."

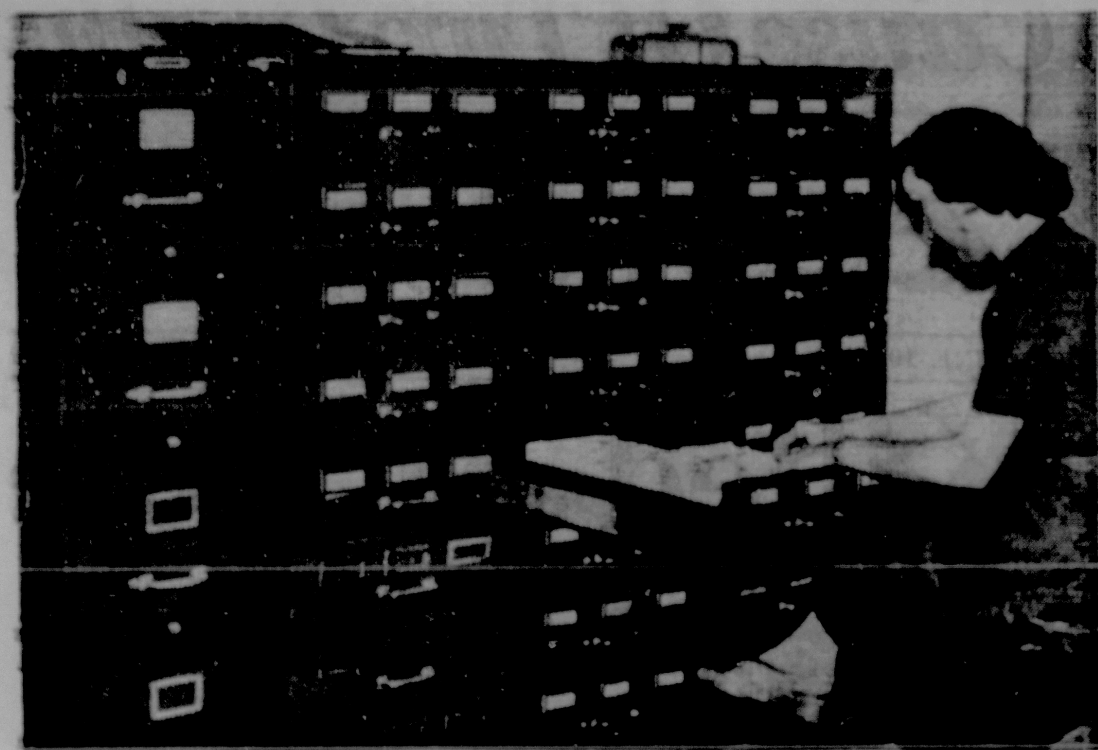

Actor Does Some Celebrating At College Reunion

Brunswick, Me. (AP)—Film actor Gary F. Merrill's gay reunion weekend—which included knocking hats off marching musicians in the commencement procession at Bowdoin College—cost classmates $20 yesterday.

Merrill, husband of actress Bette Davis, didn't show up in Municipal Court to answer charges of intoxication and disturbing the peace. His $20 bail, posted by "the class of 1937," was forfeited.

The actor, about 48, was arrested as he tried to lead the band in the commencement procession Saturday.

Merrill attended Bowdoin for his freshman year, transferring to Trinity College, Hartford, Conn.

Pennsylvanians Set U.S. Pace In Choral Singing

The thirty-third of a series of articles dealing with industrial operations in Monroe County is presented today by The Daily Record. Also of the series is to acquaint all citizens with what is considered here, how it is made, the type of people and skills engaged in such production and the economic impact of each industry on this region.

By James B. Gaffney

Fred Waring and his Pennsylvanians exert a more profound effect on America's choral singing than any other musical organization—in the opinion of experts in the profession.

Highly talented entertainers, the unit consists of 80 or more performers who bring to the music world from the Monroe Theater at First Ave. and 75th St. in New York, a television show over CBS Sunday nights. This 30-minute versatile show is applauded in every village in the country where the TV medium extends.

Four days of rehearsal perfect the production before the cameras finally focus on Waring and his group. Since the organization is so great numerically and the staging so elaborate in scope, it is impossible to present the Waring show before an audience. The entire floor of the Monroe Theater has been made over for this production.

Many of the Pennsylvanians live here in this section, including Livingston Gearhart and Virginia Morley, the piano team; Leonard Kranendonk, baritone soloist; "Uncle Lumpy" Brannum, who prepares the TV scripts and does the Little Orley recordings; and Dr. Lara Hoggard, choral director of the Pennsylvanians.

As evidence of the ingenuity of Waring, just recently it was learned that Warner Bros. still have intact, and are utilizing a recording studio designed by Waring for his first musical with Harold Lloyd about 20 years ago.

Once the curtain rings down on the finale of the TV season, Sunday, June 22, the entire cast is at liberty for 13 weeks when rehearsals resume for next season. But the morning of June 23 Fred Waring will be busily engaged in another of his famous projects—the workshop.

Choral Workshop
Schools, colleges, church and community choral directors look forward to the summer season enthusiastically for one paramount reason—the chance to participate in a session of the Fred Waring Choral Workshop.

Resulting from numerous requests to attend rehearsals of Waring's Glee Club, the workshop first was established at Shawnee in 1947. Since then about 3,500 directors have taken part in the training.

Five sessions were held coast-to-coast in 1951, attended by about 1200 music masters. The program was so successful, this year's plan calls for six sessions which will attract an estimated 500 music educators.

With only two one-week breaks between sessions, Waring will conduct the workshop until August 18 when he returns for the TV season rehearsals.

Purpose of the workshop is to encourage and improve choral singing. Intensive instruction includes 40 hours of choral technique training. Discussion periods deal with technique, program building, rehearsal procedures and problems of balance and arrangement.

This year the workshop travels to the University of New Hampshire; Pennsylvania State College; Michigan State College; University of Wisconsin; University of Colorado and Loyola School of Music and Arts in southern California.

Festival of Song

An innovation to the music world is the Festival of Song, combination of enthusiastic and talented young singers, dancers and instrumentalists who will go on tour to spread their musical goodwill.

CONSTANTLY ADDING NEW ARRANGEMENTS and new tunes to the catalogue has become a byword with the Waring Enterprises organization which includes Shawnee Press. Three of the biggest sellers are the Waring arrangements of Julia Ward Howe's "Battle Hymn of the Republic"; "You'll Never Walk Alone" from the Rodgers and Hammerstein musical, "Carousel"; and Irving Berlin's "Give Me Your Tired, Your Poor", a musical setting of the Emma Lazarus poem which serves as the inscription on the base of the Statue of Liberty. Here Robert Schell, retail manager of Shawnee Press and Jacob Cohen, treasurer of Waring Enterprises, check copies of the three tunes, each of which sells more than 80,000 copies per year. All mailing of arrangements and correspondence concerning the music is done from the firm's East Stroudsburg offices. (Daily Record Photo)

Dr. Hoggard one of the nation's best known choral directors, heads this unit of 35 youngsters selected on the basis of their musical aptitude. From all sections of the country these youngsters converged for auditions and will begin their nation-wide tour in November, concluding in March, 1953.

The participating musicians will be brought to Shawnee in the fall for a period of one month training before leaving on tour. Designed to be one of the foremost music groups in the nation, it goes without saying that the prestige this group will bring to Monroe County is fabulous.

Shawnee Inn
Still another part of the Waring Enterprises is the luxurious Shawnee Inn. Situated in the sweeping Delaware Valley filled unsurpassably with the generous givings of Mother Nature, this natural spot is the mecca of many travelers and the home plate of Waring's team.

And in the gift shop at this focal point is Tom Waring, operator of the shop energetic brother of Fred. He has gained international prominence as a composer, author, painter, designer, pianist, singer and is partner and co-founder of Waring's Pennsylvanians. An institution in himself, Tom Waring has been a major contributor to the success of Waring Enterprises and the key to the principal purpose of the organization—to bring to the world the best in music.

Shawnee Inn employs 125 persons during the brief Summer season and stands out in its field of revenue producing services for this section.

Throughout the years since the incorporation of Waring Enterprises, the chief aim has been to bring all phases of operation to this section. In a few instances, where absolutely necessary, some operations are performed in the metropolitan district. But the accent is on centralization, with Monroe County as the hub.

When you consider the masses employed by the concern; realize the operations originate here and know the $2,500,000 business is transacted right here in the Stroudsburg, with deposits made in local banks and disbursements sent out from the local office—the picture vividly tells the story of Waring Enterprises' contribution to Monroe County, financially, socially and prestige-wise.

In ancient Rome, salt was so valuable it was sometimes used as money.

Woman Hurt In Collision On Route 209

Delaware, Pa.—A woman was injured yesterday morning when her car collided with a truck on Route 209 here.

She was Mrs. Beatrice L. Booth, Middlebury, Conn., who Milford State police said was on her way to Buck Hill Falls.

The truck driver, Everett W. Croaker, Newfoundland, switched on his turn signal and started to make a turn off Route 209 and onto a private driveway, police said.

Mrs. Booth started to pass the truck and hit it in the side as it turned, police said.

A passing motorist, Fred Harder, Berwick, Pa., drove Mrs. Booth to the office of Brig. Gen. Gouverneur Emerson, Milford, where she was treated by the retired Army physician.

At Dr. Emerson's advice, she was taken to St. Francis Hospital, Port Jervis, for further observation.

Geissinger, Playhouse To Be Hosts

Mountainhome—In cooperation with Mrs. Rowena Stevens, owner of the Pocono Playhouse, Mountainhome, Charles D. Geissinger, managing owner of the Mo-nom-o-nock Inn, will entertain the press with a cocktail party and dinner preceding the 1952 season's opening performance at the Pocono Playhouse.

The playhouse has booked for its opening show Lanny Ross in "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn." This Broadway musical sensation, taken from the book by the same name by Betty Smith, will run for ten performances through Saturday night, June 21.

During the five years of its existence, the Pocono Playhouse, under the management of Rowena Stevens, has risen to top place among outstanding summer theaters. This is evidenced by increasing numbers of patrons who drive many miles week after week to attend plays at the modern air-conditioned theater.

The forthcoming season will extend through the middle of September with a different attraction presented weekly starring favorite personalities of stage and screen, supported by an all professional resident company.

Productions will be under the direction of John O'Shaughnessy and Richard Bender, both of whom have served in that capacity in former seasons at the playhouse. Press relations will be handled by Dixie Lee.

Nazi Shell Put Valterschamp Out Of Baseball But V.A. Training Turned Him Into Mechanic

Overhauling an automobile engine is a lot different from leading a squad of infantry men in the mountains of northern Italy. Former Staff Sgt. John G. Valterschamp, Stroudsburg RD2, will tell you that there is a world of difference.

As you watch the husky, genial auto mechanic working at the Scheller and Kitchen garage you notice no outward signs of a physical handicap. Yet, John is a disabled veteran whose left shoulder bears the scars of wounds from German shrapnel, and his story is basic proof that the Veterans Administration on-the-job training program has been of real value to disabled veterans, employers and the community.

After John left school he worked as a construction laborer in the Stroudsburg area. Whenever he got the opportunity he played baseball and his ambition was to turn his natural aptitude for the game into a sports career. This ambition was partially realized in the summer of 1941, when he was hired by the Butler, Pa. baseball team as a regular pitcher. However, Uncle Sam had other ideas, and it wasn't long before John was wearing a different type of uniform and learning to throw hand grenades instead of the familiar baseball.

John became proficient in the use of infantry weapons and was eventually assigned to Fort Benning, Ga., where he instructed officer candidates in the use of the machine gun. In July of 1944 he was shipped overseas as a combat replacement.

Valterschamp served as a presidential guard to the late Franklin D. Roosevelt when he welcomed the President of Ecuador and also served in the same capacity at the official presentation of a U.S. sub-chaser to the government of Holland.

After waiting at the replacement depot in Naples for a short while, John was sent to join the 133d Infantry Regiment of the 34th Division. This division was part of the American Fifth Army under General Mark Clark.

September, 1944, saw the beginning of the Allied campaign to drive the Germans out of Italy. This bitter and costly campaign was waged in the rugged Apennine Mountains, certainly one of the war's toughest terrains. The objective was to push the Nazis out of the mountains and into the Po Valley where the terrain was more favorable for mechanized armor.

The Germans resisted stubbornly, however, and Allied losses were heavy. Replacements were hard to secure because the battle for the Rhineland was being waged at the same time. The race to reach the Po Valley before Winter set in failed; the Allies were just not strong enough to get across the final barrier to which the enemy clung. Winter arrived and both sides dug in. Except for small patrol actions, the war remained static in this area.

By March of 1945 the campaign got under way again. It was basically an infantry war, a struggle of man against man, patrol against patrol, mortar against mortar. Gradually the Allies pushed forward towards the city of Bologna which was a key point in the valley below.

On April 26, 1945, Sergeant Valterschamp was part of a platoon which was moving forward head-on from German batteries on the heights. Suddenly two or three shells burst on the ground near the platoon. Eleven men, including the company commander, were killed; John and another soldier were wounded.

Nine days later the Germans surrendered unconditionally in Italy. John Valterschamp at this point was in an army hospital receiving treatment for his left shoulder which had been torn and damaged by shrapnel from the shells. Finally, after being hospitalized for six months, the Medical Section decided that his wounds had healed sufficiently to warrant discharge, and on Oct. 31, 1945, John Valterschamp became a civilian once again.

Because of his weakened shoulder, John had to give up his plan to resume his career in professional baseball. For the same reason he could not return to his old job as a construction laborer.

John found that a training opportunity to learn the job of automobile mechanic was available at the Scheller and Kitchen garage. He then contacted the Veterans Administration and was given an appointment at the Veterans Guidance Center where a series of tests showed that John had the necessary aptitudes for mechanical work. The V.A. medical consultant reviewed John's medical records and approved the employment objective of automobile mechanic as being medically feasible for him.

A representative of the Education and Training Section visited the garage and approved it as being an excellent training facility.

Soon afterwards, John began his apprenticeship, which included instruction on-the-job by skilled journeymen in addition to a correspondence course in the theory of auto mechanics.

Today, John is a highly skilled automobile mechanic, thanks to his disability. Scheller and Kitchen have a capable, trustworthy and dependable employee. The Veterans Administration, with justifiable pride, has been able to close John's case, and mark his folder "Rehabilitated."

Vet Directors Select New State Officers

Representatives from veterans affairs offices throughout the Commonwealth concluded the opening session of their annual conference last night at the Penn-Stroud hotel.

Kenneth J. Guest, 1952 president of the State Association of County Directors of Veterans Affairs, officially opened the current conference at 9 a.m. yesterday.

Local city and county officials greeted the delegates, after which complete reports were heard from sectional vice presidents of the organization.

The appointment of a nominating committee for new officers occupied the remainder of the morning session.

Announcement of new officers was made by the committee during the afternoon session.

Taking office for the 1952-53 year will be: President, Roy A. Alexander, Adams County; secretary, William G. Porter, Mercer; chaplain, Joseph D. Benson, Warren; Sargeant of arms, Michael Ferko, McKean, and vice-president, Nelson W. Norwood, Carbon.

Appointed to serve as regional vice-presidents were Richard J. Murray, Bucks County, Eastern director; J. Harold Gibb, Cambria County, Western director; and Charles E. Mahaffie, Lycoming County, Central director.

Reports from two committee heads were heard yesterday.

These were Norman L. John's report on legislative actions and Howard Cochran's report from the special committee on the constitution and by-laws.

A round-table discussion on the administration of veterans affairs was held between 1 and 2:15 p.m. The delegates then took a tour of the Poconos.

At 6 p.m. the entire delegation was entertained at dinner by the George N. Kemp post of the American Legion.

Cyclist, 78, Injured In Crash Here

A 78-year-old Berks County man had a motorcycle mishap yesterday morning at Milford Crossing, East Stroudsburg.

Jerome Huey, 28 Marshall Ave., Stony Creek Mills, was operating his motorcycle northward on N. Courtland St., police said, when he decided to turn left into King St.

Just as he was about to make the turn the elderly man "apparently became confused by oncoming traffic," police said their investigation indicated.

He gave the vehicle a quick turn to the right, upset, landed on the pavement with a split scalp.

Huey was taken to Monroe County General Hospital for treatment of the injury.

Hospital authorities said last night the man was released immediately following treatment.

Mrs. Young Turns Detective, Learns Who Abandoned Kittens

Four weeks ago Mrs. Eddie Young set out to do a little "detective work" on her own.

Mrs. Young, with her husband, serves as caretaker of the SPCA farm on Foxtown Hill.

The night of May 12, the Youngs were asked to come to downtown Stroudsburg and pick up a large box containing six kittens which had been left on the doorstep of a local store.

It was after the kittens had been safely taken to the farm that Mrs. Young began to get disturbed about the whole thing.

She decided to find out where the kittens had come from, who was responsible for leaving them abandoned on the step without food, and, if possible, do something about it.

This week, Mrs. Ellen Albenzi, SPCA head for Monroe County, announced that, through Mrs. Young's efforts as a detective, the "persons had been apprehended."

They were "talked to" by borough authorities and fined for abandoning the kittens, Mrs. Albenzi concluded.

Driver Posts Bond After Car Strikes, Injures RD3 Woman

A charge of assault and battery with a motor vehicle was filed against a Brooklyn man yesterday after Mrs. Martha Farrer, 63, Stroudsburg RD 3, was injured by a car on Route 611 a mile north of Stroudsburg yesterday.

The accident occurred at 11:15 a. m. Stroudsburg State police said the woman walked across the highway and into the side of the car.

She suffered multiple face cuts, and possible fractures of the skull and ribs, police said. She was taken by ambulance to the General Hospital, East Stroudsburg, where her condition was reported satisfactory.

The woman was unconscious when the ambulance arrived, police said, and was lying in the middle lane of the highway.

The driver, Samuel Germansky, 42, a salesman, was driving north behind another car, he told police.

The car ahead swerved, apparently to avoid striking the woman, Germansky said, and Germansky also swung to the left.

Police said, however, that the woman walked into the side of Germansky's auto.

He was taken before Justice of the Peace William N. Walton, Stroudsburg, where he posted $2,500 appearance bond. He was released pending further court action.

Delay Is Dangerous

Pennsylvania is getting ready to prosecute governing officials of 37 of its municipalities.

The charge is that they have failed to make plans for sewage treatment works. All communities were given two years to draw up and file such plans, and the period is up on June 1 of this year.

Prosecuting the municipal officials will be unpleasant business. Fines may be as much as $100 for each councilman, etc., plus $10 a day until the law is obeyed.

There may be extenuating circumstances in some cases. But—

The State Department of Justice should really crack down on all officials who cannot show good reason for their delay.

The State began its efforts to clean up the streams back in 1937. It didn't try very hard at that time, but all polluters of the streams were at least reminded that something would have to be done.

Ten years later the pure streams law was dusted off, set on its feet and put to work. All municipalities and other polluters have now had at least four years' warning that the State means business.

Nobody wants to be too hard-boiled about this thing, but it could be kicked around until it got lost. Too much delay could be fatal.

Politics Belong in the Home Too

Guest Editorial By G. L. Smrz

Are there non-voters in your family?

Recently at a meeting to discuss the need for competence and honesty in government, a leading Pennsylvania industrial leader said, "My God, I'm just beginning to realize that in my immediate family there are SEVEN persons who never vote."

"There's my brother, his wife, son, and daughter who go to Florida every year just before the November elections. That's four votes. My son has never voted because he came of age after entering the armed forces. My sister doesn't vote because she hates politicians. Then there's my wife who thinks politics are silly."

"I haven't failed to vote in 35 years but it's no damn wonder my precinct never has much effect on an election."

Are there non-voters in your family too? Many of our wives, bless 'em, feel that voting is a man's business. They say they aren't interested in politics. Perhaps if we were to explain that our future welfare, the amount of money we have in years to come, even the kind of job you work at, may depend upon how good a government we have, it would bring home the fact that voting for competent, honest government IS their business after all.

Political experts tell us that very often bad public officials are elected by GOOD PEOPLE—who don't vote. Their missing votes are the answer to better government.

Won't you "bird-dog" a few of these votes each month? Start at home. In most cases it requires only a suggestion to turn a non-voter into a 100 per cent American citizen.

Often the reason for not voting is based on beliefs that no longer apply to present day conditions. Single-handedly you can increase the votes in your town merely by asking your relatives, friends and neighbors:

"Are you registered?"

"Do you vote at EVERY election?"

"Will you vote at the next one?"

Politics belong at home, too, because good government is EVERYONE'S business.

Permanent WPA

I am having a wonderful time reading Paul Hoffman's book "Peace Can Be Won."

Paul Hoffman is full of ideas and some of them represent a novel concept of the role of the United States. He is a business man who in recent years has devoted himself to the international side of the New Deal.

Hoffman, who once headed ECA, seems to favor a permanent international WPA, a giving, provisioning agency by which the United States takes care of its dependents. In this work, he has been associated with Averell Harriman, who aspires to the Presidency. One of Hoffman's plans is to give to the head of that agency Cabinet rank—which makes it not a temporary but a permanent agency. This is what he says:

"... I should like to recommend most urgently to the American people and to Congress that:

"An Overseas Economic Administration be formed to administer all aid and technical assistance programs abroad; that this administration have a large measure of control over the policies of such lending agencies as the Export-Import Bank; that United States representatives to all international economic organizations be responsible to it; and that this administration have equal rank with the other departments of the Government such as State, Commerce, Interior and that its administrator have Cabinet status."

Up to now, most Americans have assumed that our aid to Europe and the rest of the world is temporary; that we are giving charity to those countries who have suffered the consequences of war. The billions so employed were a gift from the American taxpayer to former allies now in distress. That was the purpose of the Marshall Plan, which was translated into ECA. Point Four is charity on a broader scale, aid being given to countries that have not particularly suffered from war but which can use any aid that is going around on the assumption that there can be no harm in taking what comes for free.

Paul Hoffman, as a realist, denies the temporary character of this aid. He has been handing out our money for so long that he has apparently reached the conclusion that the Europeans will never give up, so good a thing as getting billions for nothing. If we are stuck with it, Hoffman figures we might as well organize an Overseas Economic Administration with a chair at the Cabinet table.

An organization of such rank would not only be permanent but it would equal the State Department. For instance, Hoffman would have the "United States representatives to all international economic organizations be responsible to it." That means that our representatives to several agencies of the United Nations would report to Hoffman and not to Acheson. The idea could produce a mix-up such as existed when Henry Wallace ran a thing called BEW and nobody knew what he was doing. That became a foul muddle after a while and had to be abandoned.

Hoffman's blueprint has plan: "I recommend that this proposed Overseas Economic Administration take over the present setup of ECA; that it absorb the Point Four program now administered by the State Department; that it supervise at least the economic side of all sums to be spent on European reconstruction under the Mutual Defense Assistance Program. Moreover, American representation in the World Bank, International Monetary Fund, International Trade Organization and in all other international government bodies dealing with the world economy would receive its policy direction from such an Overseas Economic Administration."

I do not know whether Paul Hoffman's plans have been taken seriously by anybody in the present Administration or whether he has abandoned them. The book was written in 1951, which, while only a year ago, is a great distance in the thinking of a politician. Most of them shift their grounds when the going gets tough on an idea—and this concept of a permanent international WPA, a permanent funnel through which our wealth leaks to Europe, Asia and Africa and all the commissions, committees and boards in existence and to be conceived—this concept is not as good an idea in 1952 as it was in 1951.

But the trouble is that once an idea like this gets rolling, somebody who likes to spend billions puts his heart into it—and before you know it, up go the taxes.

Try And Stop Me

Near the close of the Spanish Civil War the Russians sent a brigade of "volunteers" to be in on the fighting. Arrived in Madrid, the commissar in charge delivered this note to Loyalist headquarters: "Herewith two hundred wildly enthusiastic volunteers for your army. Please return the ropes."

An American tourist in England asked the gardener at Kensington Gardens, "How do you ever get lawns as perfect as that?" The reply was, "Well, madam, the first thing you have to do is begin about 600 years ago."

Washington Report

—by Fulton Lewis, Jr.

Washington—

I use this space to express my grief that Senator Guy M. Gillette, Democrat of Iowa, failed to call Paul Hensley Appleby as a witness before his subcommittee investigating elections.

I was really loaded for this one, having placed Appleby in a special niche for personal attention ever since 1933 when he began trotting around at the heels of Henry Wallace and the assorted Communists in the department of agriculture such as Alger Hiss, Leo Pressman, Nathan Witt, John Abt and others.

Appleby was in town, but the subcommittee, trying to disengage itself from public slaughter after harassing Senator Joseph R. McCarthy with prospective witnesses who turned out to be in insane asylums, had to postpone Appleby's appearance.

Appleby, now dean of the School of Public Administration at Syracuse University, said he couldn't wait. We filed a statement with the Gillette subcommittee, but it is not likely to be included in the public record. Senator Herman Welker, Republican of Idaho, objected.

What puzzles me is why Senate committees are still calling on professors like Appleby to advise them on public matters. I tried to resolve my bewilderment by asking the subcommittee staff just who had hired Appleby to offer advice on how our national elections should be conducted, and how much his services are costing us taxpayers. Everybody ducked. Nobody knew. But somebody invited him.

There is one clue. In a public statement at the time of Appleby's arrival in Washington, Senator Gillette announced that the professor was the next witness, and that he had been helping the subcommittee for some time in preparing remedial legislation for our election laws.

The best I could get out of the Senator's office is that Appleby actually had no connection with the subcommittee, but had been asked to offer suggestions. I'm told the Senator didn't ask him; no other Senator on the subcommittee admits asking him; nobody on the staff admits issuing an invitation. So you can see why I remain puzzled.

Appleby will go down in history as the author of a scintillating remark made in 1946 at a time that the nation was trying to rid itself of Communist leeches

The Bishop Clicks

The entertainment world has been a miracle of miracles. One of Broadway's ancient beliefs about what constitutes "poison" to an audience has been flattened. The long-held view of radio and video (swallowed whole from the movie folks) that a program slanted toward a thinking public has two strikes on it has been knocked out of the lot. The sensation of television is a clergyman and a sermon! The more so because they have been on an hour and a night of the toughest competition, Tuesday nights at 8 p. m. Bishop Fulton J. Sheen, coming on the video as a top preacher man, has within a few weeks built up one of the largest audiences of the air. Variety could headline it "Parson Panics Airwaves Pix."

That there is such a thing as a sleepless sermon and that, delivered with the glow and forcefulness of the old-time evangelists, it has a tremendous appeal, has been rediscovered. Bishop Sheen is one of the great preachers of America. He has just about everything, including stage presence, personal charm, a brilliant mind, a fine voice and a real understanding of the value of a punch line and a laugh. Although a Roman Catholic he generalizes his talks so that they are easy to take, regardless of creed or sect. And we predict his success will cause a stirring in the churches of all faiths and soon talig theme." Might he ever revive his shuffling tramp character? "I work spontaneously. If an idea came, I would."

Where does he get the energy and drive, at 63, for his all-sided work? If you're interested, you do something." Then Charlie chuckled and recalled something that happened the night before.

He ate a soufflé at dinner. He went for a drive with his wife, Oona. He felt guilty at having gone off his recent reducing diet. When he got home, he danned three sweaters and trotted 32 laps — two miles — around his tennis court. A hot bath for an hour and he figured he'd shed the extra weight his indulgence had added. Five hours sleep, and back to his studio.

After he had lain still for perhaps a minute, pretending to sleep, he raised his white-clad head and said, "Cut!" Charlie is writer, director, producer, composer of background music, wardrobe-selector, and star.

Why does he do so much of the work himself?—you ask moments later in his dressing room. Chaplin, a robe around him now, is surprisingly relaxed and affable — less a mystery man than he has seemed. He grins his famous toothy little grin.

"It's the nature of the beast," he says. "I always have done it that way. It wouldn't be me if it weren't done that way. It's a one-man show."

"I was two and a half years writing this thing and another nine months writing the music. I play the piano by ear and put my ideas down on a tape recorder. Then my arranger, Ray Raash, comes in, and I tell him what I want."

"It's a damned well-polished script, an incident in the life of a comedian. An old man on his way out meets a young girl on the way up."

Chaplin's next film after this one? "Maybe a story of Bohemian life in New York, with a nose being into video some additional churchmen of special magnanimity and force. The Bishop has not only the video audiences and producers thinking; he has the churchmen of the country doing some tall thinking, too. Scholars, by the Bishop seems swell company. Forceful and straight talking, he knows the value of a gag. A holy man, he has the screen qualities of an able actor. He knows more about real showmanship than half the top figures of Broadway. There is a hypnotic quality in his gaze, but is not one that puts anybody to sleep.

Working alone in video without a quiz, a jackpot, a panel, a ballet, a song hit, a seltzer bottle or a tap dancer is close to being regarded as sure death. The video Bishop does it, and for a full half hour, without a moment's interruption even for station identification. He triumphs. Maybe the video audience's love of a knockabout act is reflected, for nobody on any program at the same hour takes the beating that Satan takes. And it ain't merely seltzer and custards. The Man With the Horns and Forked Tail looks worse late Tuesday night than anybody else in video, including the Texas badmen in the Westerns.

Here is a victory of dignity over the slapstick, the church over knockabout vaudeville and clarity over pandemonium. It is a sort of triumph of mind over "patter." You could have had 100 to 1 and your money back six months ago if you had wanted to bet that the comics would even know that a parson was on the air. But not now. The Bishop has clicked. In a day when a good sermon has become extra rare, when nine out of ten public speakers are pretty foggy minded and when the world is in a state of deep perplexity (worried stiff to you) he has demonstrated that human beings have minds, that they thirst for truth and that they are gripped by a spiritual subject treated with occasional comedy relief and handled in a way it can be understood.

Fine Quizzes Taft, Ike On Aid Spending

Harrisburg, (AP)—Gov. John S. Fine said yesterday that a big question in his mind on the foreign aid issue was "the degree of spending" favored by Dwight D. Eisenhower and Sen. Robert A. Taft.

The Pennsylvania Governor, however, emphasized anew at his news conference it was doubtful if he will express a preference for the Republican presidential nomination before the Chicago convention.

The Governor, as chairman of the State's big delegation to the convention, telegraphed each of the 70 delegates and alternates, inviting them to meet Eisenhower this Friday at the retired general's farm near the Gettysburg Battlefield.

The Governor will make arrangements for a later meeting of the delegates and alternates with Sen. Taft. The time and place of the Taft meeting, he said, has yet to be fixed.

After the Taft and Eisenhower meetings, the Governor said he "will sit down and counsel with them (the delegates) and all of us will come to a conclusion as to whom we will support."

By that means, he added, "I believe we will avoid any rancor within the ranks."

The Pennsylvania delegation officially is instructed for any candidate. A poll showed 20 favoring Eisenhower, 18 leaning toward Taft with the remaining 32 uncommitted but inclined to follow the Governor's leadership.

Fine met reporters at his office after his return from New York where he conferred with Eisenhower on Sunday. He said a large part of the interview concerned foreign affairs.

A reporter asked the Governor what concerned him most in the field of foreign policy. Fine replied:

"I am concerned about the tremendous expenditures which are being made for foreign economy and foreign armament. Without American solvency there can be neither security nor peace."

Eisenhower, Fine said, "feels, I think, we are at the peak of foreign expenditures." Taft's position on the subject, he said has been that foreign countries should do more for themselves than they have been doing.

It was at that point that the Governor remarked that a big question in his mind between the two was "the degree of spending" in foreign aid.

"I don't think anyone is for cutting it off," Fine said. Fine said he would be "perfectly satisfied" with Gen. Douglas MacArthur as the keynote speaker at the national convention but had no specific preference for it.

There was no mention in Fine's telegram to the delegates about expenses. A reporter asked Fine if expenses would be paid by the Eisenhower organization. The Governor laughed off the question without answering it.

Iran Pleads Against Court Interference

The Hague, The Netherlands (AP)—Mohammed Mossadegh, Iran's aged and emotional Premier, pleaded with the World Court yesterday to keep hands off Iran's billion-dollar wrangle with Great Britain over vital oil production in his desert land.

Speaking at times with great agitation, Mossadegh accused Britain and the Anglo-Iranian Oil Co. of operating a "state within a state" in Iran, of indulging in intrigue and corruption before finally appealing to the International Court of Justice for help after "Iran has seized the rich oil properties developed by British capital."

Iran's action was taken as a "sovereign and free country," the Premier asserted, and the court has no power to interfere as the British contend in arguing Iran violated international law. Mossadegh asked the justices to declare themselves incompetent to rule and leave the dispute where it is, no matter how unhappy either party might be.

Atty. Gen. Sir Lionel Heald will present Britain's argument that the agreement between the Anglo-Iranian Oil Co. and the Iranian government actually amounted to a treaty and that Iran had promised to submit treaty disputes to the international court. What the justices will decide possibly may not be known until the end of July.

Sales

Current Emptor... let the buyer beware! An ancient sales philosophy, reflecting a time when selling was a vicious game barring no malpractice and offering no quarter to buyers lacking wit or experience.

But selling has changed, and the modern salesman knows that such techniques, while frequently effective, do not spell service... the vital key in establishing continuous and profitable relations between buyer and seller.

What Is a Salesman?
"Nothing happens until a sale is made." This is an axiom of the professional salesman. But to make a sale in these complex times requires the utmost in knowledge, aptitude and imagination.

The modern salesman must know his product and the complicated processes entering into its manufacture and distribution. He should have a knowledge of advertising, costs and pricing systems. He needs a great deal of personality, tact, poise, honesty and enthusiasm. He should have a genuine interest in people and a deep insight into human nature.

College Training in Sales
Sales is perhaps the most vital step in any business operation, and more and more companies are thinking in terms of scientific selling and college-trained personnel.

As a future salesman you would probably major in marketing, with emphasis on principles of marketing, advertising, wholesale and retail selling, the psychology of selling and advertising, merchandising.

Kefauver Sees Strong Support From Keystone

Harrisburg (AP)—Sen. Estes Kefauver predicted yesterday he will get strong support from the Pennsylvania Democratic delegation in his bid for the party's presidential nomination.

The Tennessee Democrat made the forecast at a news conference held in conjunction with a luncheon meeting with Keystone Democrats here.

Kefauver, who came here with his wife at the request of four Philadelphia Democratic leaders, said he had "every confidence" he could carry Pennsylvania in the presidential election.

Some 200 Democrats from all parts of Pennsylvania attended the luncheon meeting called by Richardson Dilworth, Philadelphia district attorney and a Kefauver supporter. Three other Philadelphia supporters of Kefauver assisted in the meeting.

Both Kefauver and Dilworth emphasized that the meeting had nothing officially to do with the Democratic party organization in Pennsylvania.

"This is just an informal meeting to acquaint delegates with Sen. Kefauver," Dilworth explained.

He said some 29 of the state's 80 Democrats convention delegates, and about 27 alternate delegates attended along with county leaders or their representatives from 56 counties.

Mayor David L. Lawrence, Pittsburgh, Democratic National Committee member, was absent from the luncheon. Asked about this, Kefauver told reporters:

"I understand Mr. Lawrence had graduation exercises to attend in Pittsburgh today."

State Presbyterian Synod Elects Erie Man As Moderator

Chambersburg (AP)—A. Lester Mould, Erie, was chosen yesterday as moderator of the Pennsylvania Synod of the Presbyterian Church as 500 delegates opened a week-long annual meeting.

Mould, an elder of the Church of the Covenant at Erie, succeeds the Rev. W. H. Galbreath, Shippensburg, as presiding officer of the sessions at Wilson College.

Meeting with the synod is the church's Pennsylvania Women's Synodical Missionary Society. Separate sessions of the two organizations will be held daily with a joint meeting each night.

A memorial service for 30 pastors who died since the last meeting was held last night.

Officers Of Anna Logan Begin Term

Anna Logan Society of the General Hospital last night voted to sponsor sale of tickets for the Laurel Ball, with a percentage of their ticket sale going for the benefit of the General Hospital.

Harold Swenson, director of this year's Laurel Blossom festival for the Vacation Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce, spoke to the members concerning the fashion show, the selection of a Laurel Blossom Queen from local princesses, and other highlights of the ball to be held June 25 at Shawnee Inn, and of the suggestion to have the hospital auxiliaries of the county take charge of the individual ticket sales.

The project will be the first for the new administration of the Anna Logan Society which took office last night, and which includes Mrs. Anna K. Meixell, president; Mrs. William Shearer and Mrs. Harry Sutton, vice presidents; Mrs. Max Stadfeld, secretary; Mrs. John Frank, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Ralph Brodsky, treasurer; Mrs. Kenneth Skelton, assistant treasurer. The meeting followed a covered dish supper at the YMCA for members and their families with Mrs. Robert Miller, president for the past two years, presiding. The invocation was given by Rev. Dr. P. N. Wohlson.

Following the dinner, a summary of the accomplishments of the past two years as reflected in the money raised, and spent, for the hospital by the Anna Logan Society was given in the biennial report of Mrs. James Mader, retiring treasurer.

The group also voted to purchase a radiograph for the hospital, an item requested by the priorities committee of the hospital board and staff. Proceeds from the Laurel Ball ticket sales will be used for this project.

Mrs. Miller presented a certificate of merit from the society to Mrs. Robert Schell for her team, which secured the largest number of members during the past two years. Mrs. Horace Westbrook was voted into honorary membership.

Westfield Church Scene Of Wedding

Miss Hilda Hinterleitner, of Saylorsburg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Hinterleitner of Westfield, N. J., became the bride of Howard W. Hobbs, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Hobbs of Stroudsburg, were married on Saturday, May 28, at 8 p.m. in the Redeemer Lutheran Church of Westfield. The pastor, Rev. Walter A. Reving performed the ceremony, which was followed by a reception at the Chateau.

Escorted by her father, the bride wore a ballerina-length gown of Chantilly lace with an illusion neckline and scalloped hem. Her elbow length nylon tulle veil was held in place by a lace Juliet cap and she carried a colonial bouquet of white flowers.

Miss Shirley F. Smith, of Westfield, maid-of-honor, was attired in a gown of green net over satin, ballerina length. She wore a matching green Juliet cap and carried a colonial bouquet of white flowers.

Harry Hobbs, of Stroudsburg, was best man by his brother, and Albert Gumm, also of Stroudsburg, and Adolph Hinterleitner, of Brooklyn, N. Y., uncle of the bride, ushered.

For traveling the bride chose a grey shantung suit with black and yellow accessories. Both the bride and bridegroom were graduated from State Teachers College, East Stroudsburg. Mrs. Hobbs is also a graduate of Westfield High School, and her husband of Stroudsburg High School.

Many Activities At St. John's This Week

St. John's Lutheran church has a full program of activities for this week. Tonight at 8 o'clock the Women's Missionary Society will hold its monthly study, business and social meeting in the social rooms. A fine program has been arranged by the officers and the committee in charge.

On Wednesday night the Lutheran League will hold its devotional, business and social meeting at 7 o'clock in the church school room. Plans will be completed for the hay ride next Saturday and also for the annual outing and picnic of the Lutheran League of the Allentown Conference which will be sponsored by the St. John's group of young people on Saturday afternoon, June 18 at Paradise Falls.

The A. F. Everett class will hold its monthly business and social meeting on Wednesday night at the parsonage. The officers look for a large attendance of members.

The choir of the church will rehearse on Thursday at the appointed hours and the Lutheran League sponsored hayride for the young people of the church school

H. P. Merrings Mark Silver Anniversary

A silver wedding anniversary party was held in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Howard P. Merring at their home in Arlington Heights on Saturday. An outdoor picnic supper was held in the afternoon and was followed by refreshments later, including a large 25th anniversary wedding cake, ice cream and punch. Mr. and Mrs. Merring received many gifts.

Those attending the party were: Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Merring, Mrs. Elizabeth Evans, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Evans and family, Robert Evans and daughter Rosemary, all of Stroudsburg; Mr. and Mrs. William Detweiler and family, Marcelus, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon Evans, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Grebe and family, Bethlehem, and the guests of honor, Mr. and Mrs. Howard P. Merring and their sons, Jean and Neil.

Girl Scouts, Brownies Give To Camp Fund

The Brownie Troop celebrated its first birthday on Friday night when the members of Girl Scout Troop 18, which also meets at the Stroudsburg Methodist Church, joined them in a birthday party.

Three members of the troop, Kay Altomose, Kathleen Kintz, and Sandra Newhart received their year-pins; one new Brownie, Carolyn Majestic, was inducted, and Suzanne Weber received her Brownie wings and flew up to troop 13 where she was welcomed by the leader, Mrs. Merlin Rutt. Mrs. Helen Teeter is Brownie leader.

After the program the Brownies and Scouts served refreshments to their parents.

The parents joined in a collection for the Girl Scout Camp building fund, contributing $6. The two troops voted to contribute the balance in their treasuries to the same fund, with the Girl Scouts giving $450 and the Brownies $14.

Mrs. Joseph Jaffee, of Second St., Stroudsburg, is spending a week in New York City with relatives.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

Wow-me, the news was breaking fast last night, and the pictures as well. With five one-column cuts to reckon with, it's liable to take a miracle to have the right labels on the right ones. There are times when it would be much simpler to quote the SHS Mountaineer, "to get back to my ironing".

But the thing is, there are a whole host of people who do a whole lot of work outside of their own homes—and not even get paid for it. Community service takes a lot of time, and as the Miller said at Anna Logan last night, the husbands should get some of these halos, too, for their patience in putting up with late dinners, skinny lunches, and endless baby-sitting while their wives go about doing good.

Anyway, it was nice of the Anna Logans to include the husbands in their picnic supper meeting at the close of the year. Enough good viands to take the sting out of bread and jelly for dessert next winter, maybe, while that luscious looking cake in the pantry goes to the bake sale.

Meanwhile, there's a whole summer without meetings ahead of us, we keep telling ourselves. And look at that calendar—14 meetings not counting the shindig at Tamiment.

Listen To Bobby Westbrook daily, Monday through Friday, on "The Party Line" WVPO, 10:05 a.m. will begin at the church on Saturday at 6:30 o'clock.

VICTORIA COUNCIL. Daughters of America, at the party marking their 40th anniversary entertained many visiting dignitaries. State, District Officers At Local Daughters Of America

Eight state officers and three district deputies honored Victoria Council, No. 165, Daughters of America, at the celebration of their 40th anniversary on Friday at the Odd Fellows Hall.

Mrs. Ida M. Strunk, local councilor, presided at the meeting and presented each of the visiting officers who spoke briefly. State Councilor Margaret M. Rapp was the chief speaker, describing her travels over the state visiting Daughters of America chapters and complimenting the local chapter on their accomplishments.

Each officer was presented with a gift by the council, and a reception was held after the meeting with refreshments served in the dining room of the lodge hall, which had been filled with Spring flowers. The committee in charge included Agnes Smith, Cora Price, Ida Hilliard, Lizzie Hintze and Ida M. Strunk.

Plans were made for the annual banquet to be held at Green's Guest Farm on June 18. Reservations must be made by June 11 with any members of the committee which includes Mrs. Ruth Long, Chipperfield Drive; Flossie Stiff, Ida Hilliard and Ida M. Strunk.

Serfass-Haney Wedding At Home Altar, Brodheadsville

Miss Orthon Haney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Haney, of Stroudsburg RD 1, and Charles E. Serfass, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elfinger Serfass, of Brodheadsville, were married on Saturday, May 31, at 2 o'clock at the home of the bridegroom's parents.

Rev. J. S. Kistler, pastor emeritus of the Grace Lutheran Church, East Stroudsburg, performed the ceremony.

The bride wore a street-length gown of white lace, with a tight-fitting bodice, worn with a bolero jacket with long tapering sleeves, over a full skirt. She wore a white satin hat with a crown of small white flowers, white shoes, and carried a bridal bouquet of pink roses and white lilies with white streamers.

Capt. Bernada Serfass, ANC, of the U. S. Army Hospital, Fort Lee, Va., a sister of the bridegroom, was maid-of-honor. She wore a street-length gown of grey lace with navy blue accessories and carried a bouquet of yellow roses.

Gordon Haney, of Sciota, brother of the bride, was best man. The ceremony was performed in front of an altar erected at one end of the living room with a large basket of dogwood on top and baskets of gladioli, lilies and other flowers on either side. Music was played by Mrs. Charles Snyder.

The bride's mother wore a green print dress with a corsage of yellow roses and white carnations.

A reception for 75 guests followed the ceremony, with a

THE Wyckoff SHOPPER

Next to one of our Frigidaire air conditioning units, I can think of nothing that would have cooled the town more effectively than yesterday's lunch-hour downpour. When I left the office, there wasn't a breeze within miles. An hour later it was necessary (temporarily, at least) to lower two windows.

The attractive blond girl shopping at our cosmetics counter yesterday was Betsy Smith, who recently won national honors for her poetry, and appeared on one of our Wyckoff Shopper broadcasts. She tells me that several listeners asked for copies of the verse read that morning. Betsy graduated just the other evening from Stroudsburg High.

I also glimpsed Zandra Lee, this year's SHS salutatorian, and Marygy Shull, luncheon Saturday in our Wyckoff Tea Room. Our tea room seems to be a popular mecca for young people these days, and, unless my nose for news deceives me, those four girls dining just inside the door yesterday were also recent graduates. It seems to me girl graduates are prettier with each successive year... a thought in which to glory since my own will probably be in the class of '53.

For the young girl who has a bushel of dreams all centered around parties, dates, and whatever else young girls dream about today (has THAT ever changed, I wonder?) our accessories department offers a new fashion whim as cute as it is practical. It's a handbag in the form of a basket, enameled white and covered in slapdash style with painted "stickers" from magical, far away places, as well as saucy slogans "Poison," says one... "Shake Well Before Using."

When these glamour baskets first appeared, they were handsomely lined and retailed at $15. Imagine! Today, unlined, they sell at $2.98, and are still so intriguingly different the smart city stores have difficulty keeping them in stock. No doubt about it, they're darling for the girl who likes to be in the know and in the new.

Mary Keiper Hosier, our new knitting instructress, arrived for yesterday's Wyckoff Shopper broadcast wearing one of the handsomest navy and gray suits I've ever seen—from her own knitting needles, of course. I envied her, not only because the suit looked so well, but because the studio was more than air conditioned—it was refrigerated. I'm now wondering whether or not I'm brainy enough to be a knit-wit.

Life of Riley

By JIM RILEY
Sports Editor

It is quite possible that the Northampton County American Legion League will hold its annual all-star game in Stroudsburg this season, providing Gordon Giffels field is available and obtainable for night baseball. The circuit annually uses the money derived from this contest to send all the boys in the league to a baseball game at Shibe Park. Tom Carmella, athletic officer at the George N. Kemp American Legion Post is chairman of the committee entrusted with the task of obtaining a suitable field. The game is scheduled to be played on Saturday, July 12.

Stroudsburg High can take pride in the fact that it lost in the District 11 playoffs to the team that went on to win District honors, as Allentown rolled over Hegins Township, after scoring nine runs in one inning in the final playoff session on Saturday. The loss broke a winning streak that had reached 20 games for the Hegins club. Allentown needed three pitchers to stop Hegins, the team that eliminated White Haven, but the Canaries had it in the clutch, as Allentown won its first District 11 baseball title.

Vern Fegley, for ten years head basketball coach at Easton High, recently resigned to take a similar position at Abington High Vern, who is well known in the Stroudsburg-East Stroudsburg area, is a brother to Gail Fegley, Stroudsburg optometrist and softball and bowling performer of note. Vern almost annually attends the Eastern Pennsylvania Scholastic Coaches Association clinic, which will swing open its doors once again a week from Monday, at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College.

Chet Lucki, leading pitcher with Pocono A.C. at the present time, became the proud father of a bouncing baby boy over the weekend and was passing out cigars prior to Sunday's outing against Portland. Chet is the same fellow who tossed a no-hitter at Roseto, in the Blue Mountain League game recently. Lucki has won all three games that the Pocono A.C. contingent has won thus far this season. Nick Dalessandro, manager of the Roseto entry in the Blue Mountain League, branded as false the reports that he has tossed in the towel as pilot.

Homer, Nick did point out that the rumor first started because of the pressing nature of his work at the bridge construction program in the nearby Delaware River. But, the former West Bangor leader said that reports that he has resigned are absolutely false. Warren "Mag" Loney's four errors in yesterday's softball game were reportedly the result of two much steak last Saturday. However, the Eagles' shortstop put the steak to good use at the plate, as he blasted out four hits in five times at bat.

Ray Steele and Alden "Red" Feithman may attend the baseball tryout camp to be run by the New York Yankees in Bangor, at Memorial Park, on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of next week. At least one Yankee inquirer would like to see the former East Stroudsburg and Stroudsburg athletic stars attend the affair. Steele was touched for 11 hits in six and one-third innings by Kunkleton on Sunday, but a close examination of the box score will at least partially explain the wholesale assault on the promising right hander, who registered 15 strikeouts during the same length of service. Relief hurler Russell "Lindy" Traneau was charged with the loss, as Kunkleton tallied the winning run in the 10th inning.

Jerry Magnuson, former Bangor star outfielder, when the North Atlantic League was still in action, has received his discharge from the Marines and played with East Bangor, in the Blue Mountain League, on Sunday. Jerry, who is reportedly 21 years of age, is scheduled to attend the Yankee tryout school next week. Jim Barnhardt, who had his first shot at organized baseball with Bangor, has been returned to Portsmouth, of the class "B" Piedmont League, by Baltimore, of the International League. The former ESNTC pitcher had a spring trial with the Washington Senators.

Dave Besecker, veteran southpaw hurler who pitched Ananokim to victory over West End A.C., on Sunday, in a relief role, was one of the best hurlers in the history of baseball at Pocono High school. Dick Peechatka, veteran right-hander who also rates among the best pitchers ever to come out of Pocono High, also turned in a brilliant relief job on Sunday, as Tannersville took the measure of Readers, 8-7. Peechatka took over the mound duties with only one out and the winning run on second. Dick promptly fanned the next two batters to end the game.

George Dries, fast balling right-hander who did his college pitching at ESNTC, has won three and lost one game for Charleston, of the class "A" Sally League, since being sent from Houston, of the Texas League, to the Pittsburgh Pirates' chain.

Five Teams Entered In Golf Tournament At Tamiment

Bushkill—At least five teams will be represented in the All Organizations golf tournament here at Camp Tamiment today, when service clubs from all sections of Monroe County hold an outing at this local resort.

The five teams entered for certain are Stroudsburg Rotary, Lions, Mount Pocono Rotary and Barrett Lions.

A total of 19 players are entered from the Stroudsburg Kiwanis and 12 from Stroudsburg Rotary. However, only the four low scores will count in team competition, but everyone is eligible for individual prizes.

Entries may be registered right up to 1 p.m., the time set for the beginning of the tournament.

It was announced last night that there would also be a tournament for women attending the outing.

There will also be fishing, boating and swimming, in addition to other sports, for all those attending the affair.

Rizzuto Leads In Balloting For All-Star Shortstop Post

Chicago, (AP)—Phil Rizzuto of the New York Yankees jumped into the American League shortstop lead yesterday in first returns of the balloting for the July 8 All-Star baseball game lineup.

Rizzuto polled 4,278 votes, 662 more than "Chico" Carrasquel of the Chicago White Sox, who beat out the Yankee ace for All-Star honors last year. Carrasquel had 3,616.

Fan voting began last Friday and will continue until midnight June 27.

"Hank" Sauer, the Chicago Cubs' slugging hero, continued to lead his National League left field rivals and also kept in front as the poll's top vote-getter with 5,948.

Leaders for each position:

National League

American League

Committee
Mrs. William R. Tweed is chairman of the tournament committee, which also includes Mrs. Frank L. Patterson Jr., Mrs. Olaf Pedersen, Mrs. A. Byrd McDowell and Mrs. Gordon P. Savage.

Anyone wishing tickets for the tournament may obtain them by calling Mrs. J. Russell Custard, at Stroudsburg 2034-J-11.

Many valuable prizes will be presented in the tournament, which will be followed with a banquet, also at Shawnee Inn.

Brooklyn Homers Sink Cardinals

St. Louis, (AP)—Eligible-inning home run blasts by Roy Campanella and Carl Furillo, each with a man on base, broke open a tight duel between the Brooklyn Dodgers and St. Louis Cardinals here last night and gave the league leaders their eighth straight victory by a 6 to 2 score.

Relief pitcher Joe Black was the winner.

Spivey Pleads Innocent To Count

New York (AP)—Bill Spivey, Kentucky's lowering former All-American star, pleaded innocent yesterday to any part of the big basketball fix scandal.

Voluntarily
His attorney said he gave himself up voluntarily to answer perjury charges rather than be treated like a "Roman captive in chains."

General Sessions Judge Francis L. Valente released the seven-foot Spivey on $2,500 bond to await trial. No date was set but the defense demanded an early hearing.

Bazzano Gains Nod

Brooklyn, N. Y., (AP)—Tommy Bazzano, 150, of Middletown, Conn., won a split eight round decision last night from Ted Murray of New York in a fast, hard-fought main event at Ft. Hamilton. Murray weighed 146½.

Carmella To Select Field

Nazareth—Tom Carmella, athletic officer of the George N. Kemp American Legion Post, was named to select a field for the annual Northampton County American Legion League all-star game at a credit meeting here last night.

Carmella would like to locate the game in Stroudsburg, if possible, and it will draw fans from the entire Lehigh Valley.

Date
The all-star contest is scheduled for Saturday, July 12, and if it should rain on that date, it will be held on Wednesday, July 16.

Carmella announced after the meeting that tomorrow's scheduled game between East Stroudsburg and Bangor, at Bangor, has been postponed until Monday, because of commencement at Bangor High. East Stroudsburg plays at Pen Argyl on Friday, at 6 p. m.

Eagles, Kulp's Foundry Gain Softball Nods

Trouble
However, most of the advance arrivals for this 52nd blue ribbon championship were complaining of a pair of more common maladies—intense heat and Northwood's tough par 70.

Hogan, the defending champion who is seeking his fourth title in five years, and Burke, the season's leading money winner, developed cricks in their necks over the week end, apparently from air conditioning.

French Champion Decisions Small

Brooklyn, (AP)—Pierre Langlois, 155½, the welterweight champion of France, last night won a 10-round split decision over Georgia Small, 150, New York, in the feature bout at Eastern Parkway Arena.

Upset
The result came in the nature of an upset since Small was installed as a 2-1 favorite. The triumph was Langlois' 51st in 63 professional fights, while for Small the defeat was his 10th in 55 battles.

Chapman Wins French Golf Crown

Paris (AP)—Dick Chapman, 41-year-old Pinehurst, N.C., tournament veteran who lost his British amateur title last month, rallied under pressure yesterday to win his second France amateur golf championship from collegian Billy Maxwell of Odessa, Tex., U.S. amateur king, four and three, with a display of sub-par golf.

Bearing down as the pressure mounted, Chapman repeatedly scrambled out of sand and heather to overcome his 22-year-old opponent with the long booming drives. The part-time bond salesman, a seasoned Walker Cup competitor, shot 12 birdies and strayed over par only once in the 33 holes.

Chapman was 11 under par and Maxwell six under the 37-37-74 par for the beautiful 6,665-yard Mercantile course, north of Paris.

One down at the luncheon

break, Chapman finished strong. He took the lead on the first afternoon nine, quickly won the 29th and 31st with birdie twos and closed out the match on the 33rd with a birdie four while Maxwell strayed in the rough three times to take a six on the final hole.

Young Maxwell, who still has a year to go at North Texas State College, left immediately after the match to compete in the U.S.

Open at Dallas. As the American amateur champ, he was exempt from qualifying.

Chapman, who won the French title in 1939 when Maxwell was a kid in the fourth grade and the American title the next year, never tried for it again until this year. He succeeds to the championship won last year by Bobby Knowles of Brookline, Mass. Chapman eliminated Knowles in the semi-finals Sunday to advance into the all-American final.

Circuit Holds Legal Meeting

Saylorsburg—A special meeting of officers of the Pocono Mountains League was held here at the Diamond Inn last night, with the main topic of conversation being the legal phase of contracts and team franchises.

However, after a lengthy discussion, the entire matter was deferred until Monday, when it will be taken up at the regular monthly meeting of the league, at the Bartonville Hotel.

Attending
Clinton Getz, president of the league, was in charge of the meeting. Other officials present were Harry Janson, first vice-president; Morgan "Morg" Butz, second vice-president; John Wernett, secretary; M. N. Warner, treasurer, and Elmer D. Christine, league legal advisor.

Lloyd "Jake" Buskirk and Jim Correll, representing the West End A. C. entry in the league, also attended the meeting on a matter of unannounced business.

Johnson Steps Mann In Fourth

Trenton, N.J., (AP)—George Johnson, 152½, Trenton, won by a technical knockout over Bobby Mann, 155, Trenton, in the fourth round of a 10-stanza main event at Trenton Arena last night.

Halt

Felton Stops Brown
Chicago, (AP)—Lester Felton, Detroit welterweight making a comeback for title contention, scored his third straight victory last night by stopping slugging Johnny Brown of Chicago in the seventh round of a scheduled 10 at Rainbow Arena.

New Game
However, the regular Tuesday, June 10, schedule will be played and not the one scheduled for yesterday. This means that the Penn-Stroud Hotel and First Stroudsburg National Bank will clash at 6:30 p. m.

Opening Day Program Delayed
Wet grounds forced a second postponement of the opening day ceremonies in the Stroudsburg Little League yesterday and the entire program scheduled for yesterday will be held today, with the planned parade departing from in front of the Penn-Stroud Hotel at 6 p. m.

Sauer Takes Over Top Spot In National League Hit Race

New York, (AP)—"Hank" Sauer, who has hit hard but not often during his seven years in the big leagues, is the surprise leader in the National League batting race.

The big Chicago Cub outfielder, only a .270 lifetime hitter, currently tops all National League batsmen with a .347 average.

Sauer, who also leads in home runs with 14 and runs batted in with 54, picked up 18 points during the week to move up from third place. Joe Adcock, last week's leader, still is on the shelf with a knee injury, and dropped out of the top 10.

Rival
However, Sauer's position is none too secure as Brooklyn's Jackie Robinson moved to within two points of the Cubs' slugger, Robinson, sixth last week, climbed into second place by boosting his average 18 points to .345.

In the American League, Boston's Dom DiMaggio recaptured the number one batting spot from Al Rosen, Cleveland third baseman. Averages including games of Sunday show that DiMaggio, who picked up nine points, is heading the AL parade at .342 with Rosen, a .333 hitter, in second place. Rosen still maintains his lead in home runs and runs batted in with 11 and 36, respectively.

In the pitching department, a couple of frail-looking but effective southpaws are setting the pace. Bobby Shantz of the Philadelphia A's has left-handed his way to a brilliant 10-1 record in the American League while Brooklyn's "Preacher" Roe, unbeaten in five decisions, is the top National League hurler.

Cavilan Signs To Defend Welterweight Crown

By Ralph Bernstein

Philadelphia (AP)—Welterweight champion "Kid" Gavilan yesterday signed to defend his title against Philadelphia's unbeaten Gil Turner in a 15-rounder here July 7 that the promoter predicts will draw $350,000 without the benefit of television or radio receipts.

Promoter Herman Taylor, a bitter foe of television in boxing, said there will be absolutely no home television or radio broadcast of the 15-round title fight at Municipal Stadium on the eve of major league baseball's All-Star game.

"Here's a good chance to see what a real boxing attraction can draw without TV or radio," Taylor said. "We have the world's champion and the number one challenger meeting in what should be a spectacular fight. I honestly feel—and I pledge my 30 years of promotion experience on this—that this fight will draw 45,000 people and will bring in $300,000 to $350,000 at the gate. It doesn't need TV and radio money."

The promoter said there was a "very slim" chance he might relent and permit some 70 suitably equipped theaters to telecast the fight, but only to points at least 90 miles from Philadelphia. Tickets, which go on sale Monday, will be priced from $3 to $15.

"Truthfully, I'm not even really interested in theater TV," Taylor went on. "It will take a very big offer to make me change my mind. I want to stage a show that people have to come to the stadium to see, or read about in their newspapers."

Gavilan, who has won 61 fights, lost 12 and fought four draws in his 97 fights, will receive 37 and one-half per cent of the gate. Turner, unbeaten in 31 fights, including 25 by knockout or TKO, is in for 20 per cent of the take.

Red Sox Increase Lead Over Yanks To Game

Boston (AP)—The Boston Red Sox moved a full game ahead of the second place New York Yankees yesterday by overcoming a four run deficit for a 9-8 triumph over the Detroit Tigers.

Home runs by former Bostonians Walt Dropo and Don Lenhardt, the latter with three mates aboard, were in vain as the Sox scored the winning run in the sixth inning on an error by former teammate Johnny Pesky.

Mel Parnell in the opening inning when they scored four times.

Right Back

The Sox came right back with five of their own runs in the second as they rapped six singles and bombed starter Marlin Stuart from the box.

The Bostonians added a pair in the third and appeared to have a safe margin.

However Lenhardt, bashed his grand slam homer off the light tower beyond the fence in left to pull the Tigers into an 8-7 lead.

Jimmy Piersall's first homer of the campaign came in the fourth, still slipping by the foul pole into the seats in right to tie it up.

Don DiMaggio was on second after a single and a sacrifice and "Hoot" Evers was on first with a walk when Pesky let George Kell's grounder go through him for a two base error which allowed DiMaggio to score what turned out to be the winning run.

Steele Earns Two Awards In Athletics

Ray "Bud" Steele, one of the most outstanding athletes in the history of East Stroudsburg High School, received the "Babe Ruth Foundation" award at the recent graduation ceremonies, in addition to the Student Council Athletic award, as announced previously.

The "Babe Ruth" award, given to the top athlete in thousands of high schools throughout the country, is for general ability in any branch of athletics.

Student Council award is for leadership, cooperation on and off the field, and for general good conduct on the athletic front.

Presentation

Both awards were presented to Steele by Carl T. Sacor, supervising principal of East Stroudsburg public schools.

Steele has been offered scholarships to such colleges as Lehigh, Lafayette, Muhlenberg, North Carolina State, Syracuse and Moravian.

Ray is also the prime target for several major league baseball scouts as the young right hander has made his mark as a pitcher in baseball as well as a center in basketball.

Steele, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Steele, of Lehman Lake, Bushkill, celebrated his 18th birthday last Saturday.

Turpin Rules Favorite

London (AP)—Randy Turpin, former world middleweight champion, ruled a five-to-one favorite to defend his title against British 175-pound champ, tonight at White City Stadium.

Veteran Driver Quits Racing

Chicago (AP)—Melvin "Tony" Bettenhausen, national champion of the American Automobile Association, yesterday announced his retirement from racing except for the 500-mile Indianapolis classic.

Bettenhausen, 55, father of four children, said that after 14 years of speed driving he was quitting all competition in big-car dirt, midget and stock car racing to concentrate on business.

Fails

He failed to qualify in the AAA 100-mile race at Milwaukee Sunday, but said this had nothing to do with his decision to quit racing.

Bettenhausen also said his decision was not affected by the fact he crashed into a wall at Indianapolis this year in one of his attempts to qualify for the 500. In the Memorial Day race, he finished 24th due to starter failure on a pit stop.

Coach Changes Jobs

Chapel Hill, N.C. (AP)—Tom Scott, University of North Carolina basketball coach, announced yesterday that he had resigned to take over as coach of the Phillips Petroleum "66" Oilers AAU team at Bartlesville, Okla.

FFA Sends Large Delegation To Summer Convention This Week At Penn State College

Twenty-nine Future Farmers of America from the Poconos are slated to attend the 1952 Summer convention of the State organization this week.

The local group will leave for State College from Brodheadsville at 6:45 a. m. today.

Most of the boys are expected to compete in contests or educational demonstrations in one or more of the following fields: Livestock, dairy products, poultry, driving, farm mechanics, tractor driving, agronomy, plant diseases and insects, wild life management, horticulture, public speaking and chapter procedure.

Attending from Stroudsburg are Jack Harps, Herbert Courtwright, Thomas Carson and Howard Blakeslee; from Pocono Township, Robert Fields, Richard Graeber and James Sebring.

Representing Bangor will be Paul Lockard, Russell Fuls, Ernest Reimer, Orrin Stevens, Frank Miller, Daniel Haas and Elwood Steinmetz.

Roger Christman, Neal Murphy and Leo Held will attend from Polk Township while Chestnuthill will be represented by Gerald Meixell and Robert Altomose.

Selected as members of the 100 piece FFA State band are Clarence LeBar, of Bangor; John Frailey, of Pocono, and William Lotz, Stroudsburg.

Members of the State FFA chorus will be Charles Hoffman, of Chestnuthill, and Gene Reish, of Stroudsburg.

Delegates to the State association meeting are Alton Kleintop, of Polk, and Collins Brong, Chestnuthill.

The following teachers will accompany the group: George Ott, Bangor; Frank Varney, Chestnuthill; Theodore Hoffman, Pen Argyl; Clifford Stroud, Polk; Elmer Veety, Stroudsburg, and Wilmer B. Frisbie, county adviser.

The convention ends Thursday, June 12.

Dear Sir:

A peculiar new brand of "neo-toolism" has come into being with the advent of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower as a civilian. The beginning of Mr. Eisenhower's ultimate downfall as a liberal was evidenced in his echo of the so-called "States-right" interests in the Tideland Oil controversy, in which the then "Gen." Eisenhower played right into the hands of the selfish interests.

The change from the liberal-minded and intelligent human being Mr. Eisenhower had formerly deluded his fellow Americans into believing himself to be his new role of boot-licker for Sen. Robert Alphonso Taft, "Libel" Joe McCarthy and the various other demagogues now holding sway in Republican political circles, was further evidenced in Mr. Eisenhower's "homecoming" speeches in Abilene.

Without flinching, he sidestepped every important issue thrust at him by newsmen and refused to meet directly the question of "McCarthyism" on the grounds that he did not wish to indulge in "personality" analysis.

He has gone down the line with Taft on the issue of a Fair Employment Practices commission and has otherwise bent over backward to convince all and sundry that, at heart, he really is a "Republican" after all.

In his kowtowing assurances that he "never really knew a New Dealer" during the time Roosevelt held office; that he "never heard President Roosevelt express a political opinion except over the radio" and that he never voted "for a Democrat" in his life, civilian Eisenhower has begun to sound like Tom Dewey going down a steep grade in reverse, hell-bent-for-election.

That, as a matter of fact, is a fairly apt description of Mr. Eisenhower's candidacy as reflected in his speeches and public renunciations thus far.

By law, the "pattern pieces" of a trial strike made by the U.S. Mint are now carefully destroyed. In early days, however, such coins were often preserved and thus came into the hands of collectors.

CLEAN HEATERS IMPORTANT

Survey after survey shows that better than 80 per cent of the average household heating plants need service of some sort. With so many home heating plants not operating correctly, it is easy to see why users are not satisfied. Some concerns are doing a very good job in furnace cleaning. The fact that so many heaters are in poor condition shows that something further needs to be done to make more customers realize the importance of a clean heater in good condition and proper firing methods.

The United States Department of Commerce is authority for "A coating of a quarter of an inch of soot in a furnace reduces its efficiency by one half; and if the soot is only one-eighth of an inch, the furnace is one-third less efficient."—Weekly Coal Journal.

Autopsy Ordered Today To Determine Cause Of Two Deaths

Authorities Continuing Investigation

An autopsy will be performed today to determine why two childhood sweethearts celebrating their first wedding anniversary here died mysteriously in an Arlington Heights cottage.

The couple, Joseph and Alice Sielski, both 29, of Jersey City, were found dead in a rented vacationers cottage at 719 Rosemont Ave. Sunday afternoon by Clarence A. Hassinger, owner of the cottage and operator of the Beaver House.

Up to last night—more than four days after they were last seen alive—police had found no evidence in support of suicide or murder.

In response to a teletype message to Jersey City police, three of Sielski's brothers arrived from that city yesterday morning to talk with Pfc. Don Henzey and Pfc. Ed Beneski, investigators from the Stroudsburg State police substation.

The brothers could offer no clue to the deaths.

Two of them, John and William, and another brother unnamed by police, said the Sielskis had never had any marital troubles and were both satisfied with their jobs.

Joseph was a brakeman in the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad yards at Hoboken, N. J., while Alice was employed in a department of the American Can Co. in Jersey City.

The director of Kwiatkowski Brothers funeral home in Jersey City reported that the victims' parents were just as much at a loss as the Sielski brothers.

Joseph's father, Joseph Sielski Sr., said the two had been childhood sweethearts who had lived within a block of each other in Jersey City all their lives, up to the time of their marriage.

War had interrupted the couple's plans. Joseph was a corporal in an Army tank corps who spent some three years fighting in Italy and on the Sigfried Line. He was discharged in 1945.

The two were married at St. Anthony's Church in Jersey City on May 5, a year ago, the father said.

He told the funeral director they spent their honeymoon in the same cottage where they were found dead Sunday. Mr. Sielski's statement was not borne out by police, however, who said the couple had honeymooned "in the vicinity" but not in the same place.

Sielski Sr. said Joseph and Alice owned their own car and had a "beautiful apartment" at 357 York St., Jersey City, and had just finished painting two of the rooms in it.

They arranged to have their week-long vacations together, according to Sielski Sr., and planned a "second honeymoon" in celebration of their first anniversary.

They left Jersey City in their car Thursday morning, according to the father, and were in high spirits at the time.

The Sielskis checked in at the Beaver House at about 4:30 p.m. Thursday. Joseph paid a week in advance for the four-room house-keeping cottage.

The couple unpacked at the cottage. Their clothing and effects were hung in closets and placed in the bureau drawers.

About 8 p.m. they appeared at the Beaver House for a steak dinner. Hassinger told police the pair behaved in a normal, ordinary fashion, and he had no reason to suspect any trouble between them.

It was the last time they were seen alive, police said.

Hassinger told police one of his women employees went to the cottage Saturday morning with a supply of fresh linens.

No one responded to her knocking, and she went away again, rather than "disturb" the couple.

Sunday, police said, Hassinger took it upon himself to deliver the linen. He too knocked, and no one answered. He circled the cottage and looked in through a bedroom window. On the bed he saw the couple.

Police said Hassinger climbed into the cottage through an unlatched, partially-opened window and opened the door. It had been locked from the inside, police said. Hassinger then called police and sent for Dr. Charles Rushmore.

Police said Hassinger saw no evidence of struggle or violence when he entered the bedroom.

The cottage has a living room, bedroom, kitchen and dining room, police said.

Mrs. Sielski had washed and hung up some lingerie before going to bed, police said. In the kitchen is a gas stove, serviced by the borough's regular gas lines. Police said Hassinger told them the jets were turned off when he entered and there was no odor of gas in the cottage.

In the bathroom a tube of toothpaste lay on the wash basin. In the empty basin lay a capped bottle. On a shelf over the basin a glass tumbler lay on its side.

Steel Talks Collapse; Union Spurns New Offer

Washington (AP)—Steel peace talks collapsed last night and the White House said industry and union had reached a "complete deadlock."

CIO Steelworkers' President Philip Murray said the strike, a week old yesterday, will continue.

John A. Stephens, vice president of U. S. Steel and the chief industry negotiator,

GEORGE N. ZARUBIN, who was Russia's ambassador to Britain, succeeds Alexander S. Panyushkin as Soviet ambassador to the United States. Panyushkin announced that he is returning to Moscow to take a new appointment.

Reds Taunt Allies For Staying Talks

Munsan, Korea (AP)—The Red high command in a letter to Gen. Mark Clark yesterday taunted the Allies for declaring a recess in the Korean truce talks now entering their 11th month.

Contents of the letter were broadcast by the Peiping radio early today. It was signed by Gen. Kim Il Sung, premier of North Korea, and Chinese Gen. Peng Teh-huai.

"If you wish to break up the talks by this tactic, you should do it officially and take full responsibility for it," said the broadcast. "You should know that what you cannot get on the battlefield you cannot get at the conference site."

The United Nations Command declared a three-day recess Saturday after listening repeatedly to Communist harangues charging mistreatment of Red prisoners. The Reds didn't agree to the recess.

Maj. Gen. William K. Harrison, senior Allied delegate, told the Reds that unless they would offer specific proposals in writing for breaking the deadlock, the U. N. team would not return to Panmunjom until 11 a.m. Wednesday (10 p.m., EDT, Tuesday).

Questions Remark

Washington (AP)—Secretary Frank Pace Jr. said yesterday the doubt expressed by Maj. Gen. Daniel H. Hudson that the United Nations can win in Korea is contrary to everything the highest military leaders have to report.

Collector Acquitted

San Francisco (AP)—A federal court jury last night acquitted James G. Smyth, ousted Northern California collector of Internal Revenue, of charges he defrauded the government of $402 by back dating his 1945 income tax return.

Britain Lifts Blockade Of Reds' Radio Berlin

Berlin (AP)—The British last night announced the lifting of a seven-day armed blockade of Russia's Radio Berlin headquarters.

Barbed wire barricades surrounding the station, which is located deep in West Berlin, were ordered taken down at midnight.

Western commandants in Berlin approved the British decision at an urgent meeting yesterday afternoon. The decision, which came on the heels of some minor Soviet gestures of reconciliation, disappointed anti-Communist Germans who had hoped the Russians would be expelled permanently from the station.

But the Western commandants took the view that the blockade was a weapon that might boomerang dangerously if continued longer. They agreed the blockade was a limited operation which had achieved most of its aims in easing Soviet pressure on the border of Berlin, and could be used again in the future if the situation worsened.

Maj. Gen. C. F. C. Coleman, the British commandant, ordered the Royal Scots Infantrymen and military police to remove the barbed wire which had sealed off the 750-room Soviet "island" in West Berlin since early last Tuesday.

He notified Soviet Political Chief Sergei Dengin of his order, which leaves the Soviet Tommy-gun detachment guarding Radio Berlin free to leave or re-enter it through West Berlin at any time they choose.

But Coleman told the Russians that beginning Thursday the German staff of the big Communist propaganda installation must have passes from West Berlin to visit the building.

Coleman said this was done because of the Soviet demand that West Berliners obtain special passes to visit the suburb of West Staaken.

The turning point came Sunday when the Russians allowed British military police to put up 10 signs marking a British sector territory a 400-yard road into Eiskeller, a settlement of 28 persons which the Soviet troops had sealed off a week ago.

MacArthur Likely Choice As Keynote

By The Associated Press

Taft and Eisenhower forces fight it out today over control of the Republican National Convention machinery and the selection of Gen. Douglas MacArthur to deliver its keynote address. MacArthur seemed likely to draw the speaking assignment.

Except for occasional oratory and hand-shaking sorties, Democrats for the most part were in a pre-convention lull. The next big event is a state convention Friday at which Connecticut Democrats are expected to put 16 favorite-son votes in the pocket of Sen. Brien McMahon.

The Republican showdown comes at a meeting in Chicago of the committee making arrangements and picking the officials for the party convention to be held there starting July 7.

Backers of Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio said the committee would be asked to pick MacArthur to give the Republican-praising Democratic-baiting rallying speech that is supposed to set the tone of the convention and campaign.

Supporters of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower were resisting MacArthur for keynote on grounds the role should go to somebody with a more neutral approach to rival candidates. But they admitted Taft people outnumbered them on the arrangements committee and were in a position to have things pretty much their own way.

Ship To Carry British A-Bomb To Australia

Portsmouth, Eng. (AP)—The aircraft carrier Campania will leave port today with Britain's first atom bomb, to be tested this summer off the northwest coast of Australia.

Reliable informants confirmed that components of the bomb have been placed aboard the closely guarded 15,000-ton vessel. They said the Campania would call at Gibraltar and Fremantle enroute to the test site in the Montebelle Islands.

The Campania carried no planes, only the bomb and quantities of highly secret equipment.

U.S. Relaxes Real Estate Credit Curbs

Washington, (AP)—The government relaxed real estate credit controls yesterday to permit lower down payments on new houses.

The biggest concessions were made for houses costing less than $7,000 or more than $25,000.

Changes in down payments for dwellings in the $8,000 to $15,000 bracket were called very disappointing, however, by a big group of construction men, the National Association of Home Builders.

The Federal Reserve Board announced that, starting Wednesday, down payment requirements will be lowered as follows:

On houses costing $7,000 or less, from 10 per cent to 5 per cent. Thus the amount of cash down on a $7,000 house will drop from $700 to $350.

On houses costing $25,000 or more, from 50 per cent to 40 per cent. On a $25,000 house, that's a drop from $12,500 to $10,000.

On houses costing from $8,000 to $15,000, from the present rising scale of 15 to 28 per cent to a new range of 11.9 to 24.7 per cent. For a $12,000 house, the cut will be from $2,400 down to $2,350. The builders' association called this $50 reduction "insignificant."

Ex-servicemen able to buy with a mortgage guaranteed by the Veterans Administration (V. A.) will continue to get better terms under the veterans' preference Congress has written into law.

For veterans, no down-payment at all will be required after today for houses costing under $7,000, although closing costs, an item of $100 to $200 for title search, registration fees and so on, must be paid in cash. A 4 per cent down payment has been required.

Veterans will be able to get by with a down payment of 35 per cent, against the old 45 per cent, on $25,000-up houses they can buy with V. A. mortgage aid. On houses costing $8,000 to $15,000, vets' down payments will be 4.8 to 17 per cent against 6 to 23 per cent before.

Time limits for paying off mortgages will remain the same: 25 years for houses valued under $12,000, and 20 years for higher priced property. Veterans, however, can have up to 30 years if the V. A. finds a shorter period would cause them hardship.

The down payment cuts for houses are the first permitted by the government since it put real estate credit controls into effect Sept. 1, 1951, to hold down use of scarce materials and help prevent inflation.

Firms Announce Price Reductions

Lancaster, (AP)—General price reductions of some 15 per cent of Vinoflor and six per cent on heavy gauge linoleum were announced yesterday by Armstrong Cork Co.

Louisville, Ky. (AP)—General Electric Co. yesterday announced price reductions ranging from $10 to about $27 on three 1952 model refrigerators.

She showed her heels to a naval flotilla carrying midshipmen on a summer cruise to Europe and steamed on eastward.

The massive four propellers thrust through the calm seas at a speed of more than 30 knots, but there was surprisingly little wake churned up by the 53,290-ton vessel. Her graceful 990-foot hull—the length of three football fields with something left over—is so designed that she slips through the sea with a minimum of disturbance.

If the Maritime Administration approves of her performance on this run and accepts the ship, the United States will make her maiden voyage July 3 from New York to Southampton and LeHavre with 2,000 passengers and a crew of half that number.

Rain, Wind Black Out Many Homes

New York (AP)—A flash rainstorm with winds up to 84 miles an hour swept over the New York metropolitan area yesterday, killing two persons and stopping electricity to tens of thousands of homes.

The gusty winds blew a 225-pound man off a four-story Manhattan roof to his death. Off Long Island a fisherman drowned when the wind-whipped waves capsized his rowboat.

The other men were blown from a scaffolding at Long Beach and critically injured.

Thousands of trees were downed. Many were stately maples on residential streets.

Th Long Island Lighting Co. reported that fallen wires had knocked out 90 per cent of its electrical service in an area of 800,000 population.

In Newark, N. J., the storm knocked the temperatures down from this year's high of 90 to 70 degrees in only a few minutes.

Power failure stopped production in manufacturing plants.

Liner On New Trial Run Aboard the SS United States At Sea, (AP)—The giant new superliner United States sliced through the waters of the Atlantic yesterday in performance trials her builders are sure will rate her as the fastest passenger vessel afloat.

Her white superstructure gleaming in the morning haze, the 70-million-dollar soon-to-be crowned queen of the U.S. merchant marine horsepower unleashed her 165,000 horsepower at the start of an eight-hour full-power run of 150 miles east of Cape Henry, Va.

She showed her heels to a naval flotilla carrying midshipmen on a summer cruise to Europe and steamed on eastward.

The massive four propellers thrust through the calm seas at a speed of more than 30 knots, but there was surprisingly little wake churned up by the 53,290-ton vessel. Her graceful 990-foot hull—the length of three football fields with something left over—is so designed that she slips through the sea with a minimum of disturbance.

If the Maritime Administration approves of her performance on this run and accepts the ship, the United States will make her maiden voyage July 3 from New York to Southampton and LeHavre with 2,000 passengers and a crew of half that number.

U.S. Troops Empty Compound 76, Nip Mass Escape Plot

Koje Island, Korea (AP)—Tough American paratroopers of the "Angels from Hell" combat team today emptied Compound 76 of its 6,000 Communist prisoners of war in bloody fighting, burned the compound to the ground, and clapped its leaders in solitary confinement.

The Reds lost an estimated 24 to 30 killed and 136 wounded.

Two Americans were killed, one by a concussion grenade that fell short, and 13 were wounded.

Inside the wrecked and bloodsoaked compound, U. S. intelligence officers found a master plan to liberate all of the 80,000 prisoners of war on this island of hate and death. The Reds had planned to seize the island, about 25 miles long and 15 miles wide off Southeast Korea, and turn Allied guns on their captors.

A 50-foot long tunnel lined with plywood walls and containing blowers to air condition it, was found leading toward nearby Compound 77.

Some 6,800 prisoners of war in Compound 78, across the road from 76, offered no resistance when they were marched out to new quarters starting at noon. Prisoners in Compound 77 were scheduled to be moved tomorrow.

The grim lesson of 76 had taken hold.

The snarling and defiant Reds fought from trenches and buildings with spears and swords forged in their illegal blacksmith shops. They ignored an order to move out of the compound peacefully.

The paratroopers stormed into 76 shortly after daybreak. Cowboy yells from the Americans and an eerie chant from the Communists mixed with the popping of concussion grenades, the swish of tear gas rockets and heavier explosions of Communist gasoline drums.

The North Korean leader, Col. Lee Hak Woo, surrendered meekly after 20 minutes. He was "frog-walked" on his hands and legs to solitary confinement. So were about 10 other leaders.

The fighting broke out at 6 a. m. (5 p.m. EDT, Monday) when the paratroopers charged into Compound 76 to move the defiant prisoners of war to new smaller unit quarters.

The POWs had been given 15 minutes to assemble for the transfer.

Instead they swarmed into hastily dug trenches and started fighting with spears and crude swords.

The prisoners set fire to tents and buildings in the compounds as two battalions of the 187th Airborne Regimental Combat Team crashed into the compound.

The paratroopers hurried concussion grenades and tear gas rockets as they swept down on the barricades with bared bayonets.

The concussion grenades exploded in gasoline stores the prisoners had hoarded for the battle.

Wooden buildings blew up. Prisoners locked themselves in others.

The Americans chopped holes through the walls, then they tossed in the concussion grenades among the tightly packed prisoners.

The prisoners struck back with crude swords and spears forged in the compound blacksmith shops.

The fighting in the trenches was a wild melee.

The Americans leaped into ditches among the prisoners. They jammed bayonets into those who resisted.

Some of the wounded POWs kept on fighting as long as they could move.

Reports from within the compound said the Red leaders themselves had killed some prisoners who refused to stand against the charging Americans.

The prisoners were taken by surprise. They had been set for a charge through the compound's main gate. Instead, the paratroopers tore through the barbed wire fences on the sides of the camp.

Brig. Gen. Hayden L. (Bull) Boatner, tough commander sent to the camp less than one month ago to restore Allied control inside its 17 unruly prisoner compounds, directed today's operation from a command post overlooking the compound.

It was the showdown against the toughest of all Red POW com-

Senate Sends Foreign Aid Bill To HST

Washington (AP)—The Senate passed a $6,447,730,750 foreign aid bill yesterday and sent it to the White House for President Truman's signature.

The big mutual security program was authorized by a roll-call vote of 59 to 11. Ten Republicans and one Democrat—Sen. Olin Johnston of South Carolina—voted no.

A compromise of two different bills passed previously by the Senate and House, the new legislation authorizes $4,598,000,000 in direct military aid to nations lined up with the United States against Communist aggression and threats of aggression.

This is aid in the form of aircraft, tanks, guns and other weapons of war.

It also authorizes $1,805,000,000 in economic assistance to countries cooperating in the mutual security program. Bills actually appropriating the money for the fiscal year starting July 1 will be offered later this session. They may be sharply debated.

Congress trimmed about $1,450,000,000 out of the administration's appropriation before approving it. The House passed the compromise bill by a 230 to 115 vote last week.

pounds—one that previously had shown fiery defiance against every Allied order.

The heaviest fighting lasted 42 minutes. Prisoners in two nearby compounds watched the fighting. They were scheduled to be moved next.

Boatner said he did not plan to isolate the Red leaders immediately but would segregate them later.

Boatner warned the prisoners by loudspeaker to assemble for the transfer. He gave them 15 minutes.

When it became obvious the Reds were not going to obey his order, Boatner telephoned Brig. Gen. Thomas J. H. Trapnell, commander of the 187th Airborne Combat Team.

"Trap," he said, "we've given them more than 15 minutes. Move up to Phase Line A and hold it until I call you."

"They intend to resist," Boatner told correspondents. "I had hopes this wouldn't happen. I never thought they would do that."

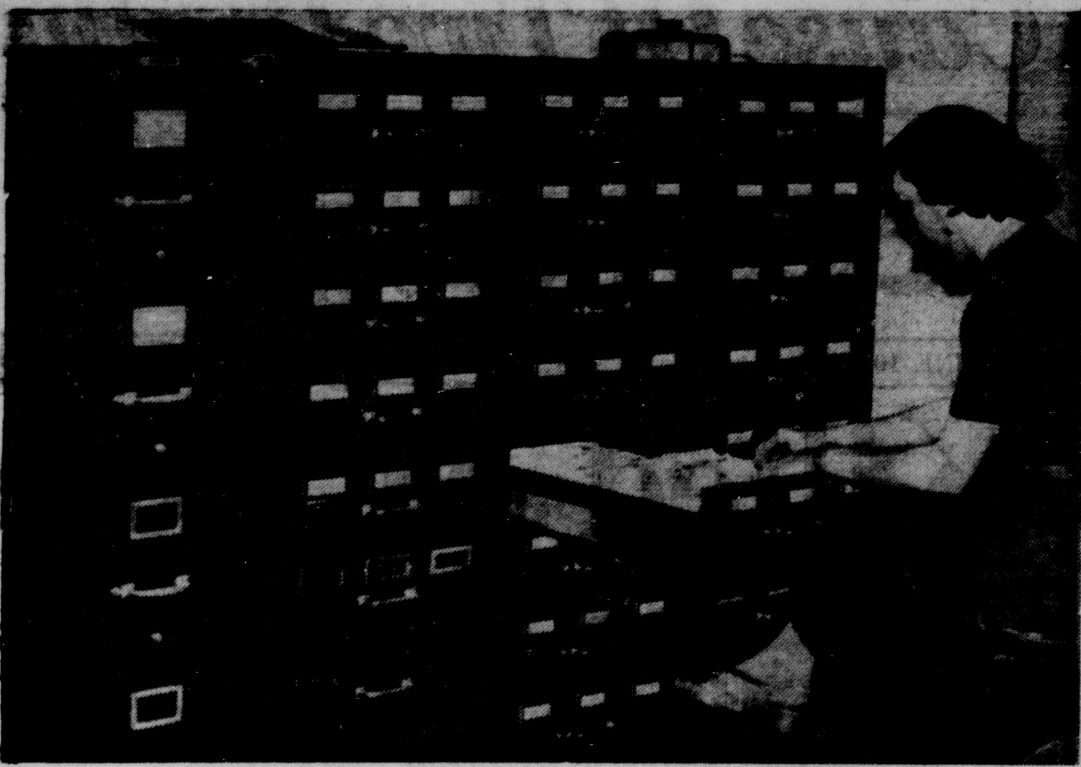

Actor Does Some Celebrating At College Reunion

Brunswick, Me. (AP)—Film actor Gary F. Merrill's gay reunion weekend—which included knocking hats off marching musicians in the commencement procession at Bowdoin College—cost classmates $20 yesterday.

Merrill, husband of actress Bette Davis, didn't show up in Municipal Court to answer charges of intoxication and disturbing the peace. His $20 bail, posted by "the class of 1937," was forfeited.

The actor, about 40, was arrested as he tried to lead the band in the commencement procession Saturday.

Merrill attended Bowdoin for his freshman year, transferring to Trinity College, Hartford, Conn.

A PORTION OF THE MASTER filing system maintained by Waring Enterprises is shown here. Natalie Bell consults the files, which contain the names of more than 2,500,000 persons who have contacted Shawnee Press, the Pennsylvanians, Shawnee Inn, Waring Workshop or the Music Journal, for one of the names kept on a constant mailing list. All correspondence relating to the vast Waring organization is recorded for references in these files. The thousands of letters which emerge from the Waring offices are postmarked "East Stroudsburg" thereby spreading the name of that community throughout each of the 48 states and throughout the world. Pennsylvanians Set U.S. Pace In Choral Singing

The thirty-third of a series of articles dealing with industrial operations in Monroe County is presented today by The Daily Record. Aim of the series is to acquaint all citizens with what is produced here; how it is made, the type of people and skills engaged in such production and the economic impact of each industry on this region.

By James B. Gaffney

Fred Waring and his Pennsylvanians exert a more profound effect on America's choral singing than any other musical organization—in the opinion of experts in the profession.

Highly talented entertainers, the unit consists of 80 or more performers who bring to the music world from the Monroe Theater at First Ave. and 75th St. in New York, a television show over CBS Sunday nights. This 30-minute versatile show is applauded in every village in the country where the TV medium extends.

Four days of rehearsal perfect the production before the cameras finally focus on Waring and his group. Since the organization is so great numerically and the staging so elaborate in scope, it is impossible to present the Waring show before an audience. The entire floor of the Monroe Theater has been made over for this production.

Many of the Pennsylvanians live here in this section, including Livingston Gearhart and Virginia Morley, the piano team; Leonard Kranendonk, baritone soloist; "Uncle Lumpy" Brannan, who prepares the TV scripts and does the Little Orbits recordings; and Dr. Lara Hoggard, choral director of the Pennsylvanians.

As evidence of the ingenuity of Waring, just recently it was learned that Warner Bros. still have intact, and are utilizing a recording studio designed by Waring for his first musicale with Harold Lloyd about 20 years ago.

Once the curtain rings down on the finale of the TV season, Sunday, June 22, the entire cast is at liberty for 13 weeks when rehearsals resume for next season. But the morning of June 23 Fred Waring will be busily engaged in another of his famous projects—the workshop.

Choral Workshop
Schools, colleges, church and community choral directors look forward to the summer season enthusiastically for one paramount reason—the chance to participate in a session of the Fred Waring Choral Workshop.

Resulting from numerous requests to attend rehearsals of Waring's Glee Club, the workshop first was established at Shawnee in 1947. Since then about 3,500 directors have taken part in the training.

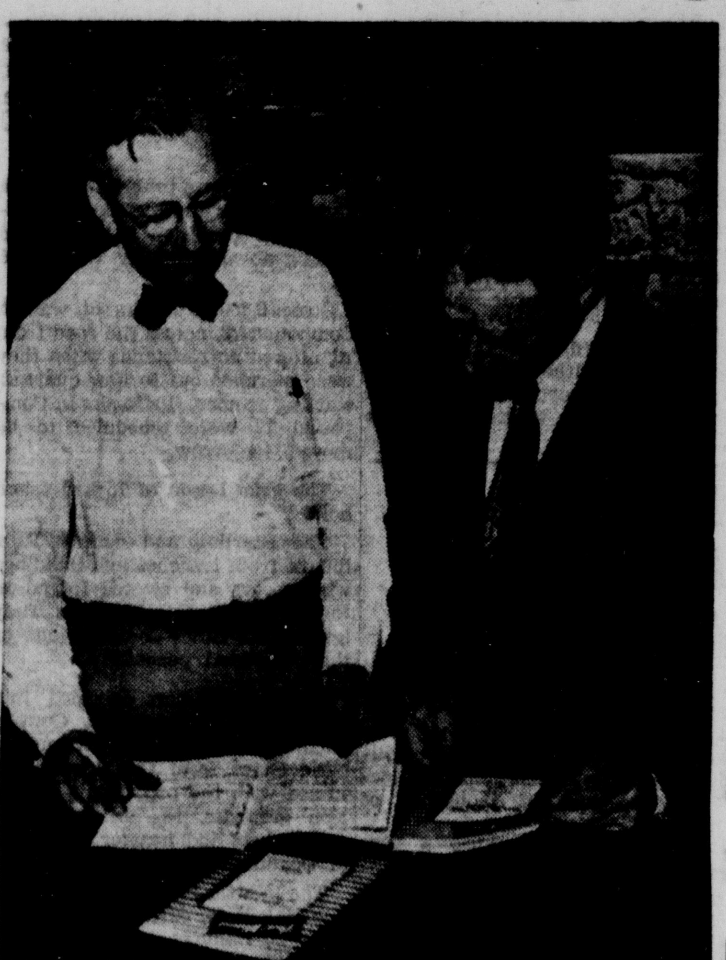

Five sessions were held coast-to-coast in 1951, attended by about 1200 music masters. The program was so successful, this year's plan calls for six sessions which will attract an estimated 500 music educators.

With only two one-week breaks between sessions, Waring will conduct the workshop until August 18 when he returns for the TV season rehearsals.

Purpose of the workshop is to encourage and improve choral singing. Intensive instruction include 40 hours of choral technique training. Discussion periods deal with technique, program building, rehearsal procedures and problems of balance and arrangement.

This year the workshop travels to the University of New Hampshire; Pennsylvania State College; Michigan State College; University of Wisconsin; University of Colorado and Idyllwild School of Music and Arts in southern California.

Festival Of Song
An innovation to the music world is the Festival of Song, combination of enthusiastic and talented young singers, dancers and instrumentalists who will go on tour to spread their musical goodwill.

CONSTANTLY ADDING NEW ARRANGEMENTS and new tunes to the catalogue has become a byword with the Waring Enterprises organization which includes Shawnee Press. Three of the biggest sellers are the Waring arrangements of Julia Ward Howe's "Battle Hymn of the Republic"; "You'll Never Walk Alone" from the Rodgers and Hammerstein musical, "Carousel"; and Irving Berlin's "Give Me Your Tired, Your Poor", a musical setting of the Emma Lazarus poem which serves as the inscription on the base of the Statue of Liberty. Here Robert Schell, retail manager of Shawnee Press and Jacob Cohen, treasurer of Waring Enterprises, check copies of the three tunes, each of which sells more than 80,000 copies per year. All mailing of arrangements and correspondence concerning the music is done from the firm's East Stroudsburg offices. (Daily Record Photo)

Dr. Hoggard one of the nation's best known choral directors, heads this unit of 35 youngsters selected on the basis of their musical aptitude. From all sections of the country these youngsters converged for auditions and will begin their nation-wide tour in November, concluding in March, 1953.

The participating musicians will be brought to Shawnee in the fall for a period of one month training before leaving on tour. Designed to be one of the foremost music groups in the nation, it goes without saying that the prestige this group will bring to Monroe County is fabulous.

Shawnee Inn
Still another part of the Waring Enterprises is the luxurious Shawnee Inn. Situated in the sweeping Delaware Valley filled unsurpassably with the generous givings of Mother Nature, this natural spot is the mecca of many travelers and the home plate of Waring's team.

And in the gift shop at this focal point is Tom Waring, operator of the shop energetic brother of Fred. He has gained international prominence as a composer, author, painter, designer, pianist, singer and is partner and co-founder of Waring's Pennsylvanians. An institution in himself, Tom Waring has been a major contributor to the success of Waring Enterprises and the key

Woman Hurt In Collision On Route 209

Delaware, Pa.—A woman was injured yesterday morning when her car collided with a truck on Route 209 here.

She was Mrs. Beatrice L. Booth, Middlebury, Conn., who Milford State police said was on her way to Buck Hill Falls.

The truck driver, Everett W. Croaker, Newfoundland, switched on his turn signal and started to make a turn off Route 209 and onto a private driveway, police said.

Mrs. Booth started to pass the truck and hit it in the side as it turned, police said.

A passing motorist, Fred Harder, Berwick, Pa., drove Mrs. Booth to the office of Brig. Gen. Gouverneur Emerson, Milford, where she was treated by the retired Army physician.

At Dr. Emerson's advice, she was taken to St. Francis Hospital, Port Jervis, for further observation.

Geissinger, Playhouse To Be Hosts

Mountainhome — In cooperation with Mrs. Rowena Stevens, owner of the Pocono Playhouse, Mountainhome, Charles D. Geissinger, managing owner of the Mo-nom-o-nock Inn, will entertain the press with a cocktail party and dinner preceding the 1952 season's opening performance at the Pocono Playhouse.

The playhouse has booked for its opening show Lanny Ross in "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn." This Broadway musical sensation, taken from the book by the same name by Betty Smith, will run for ten performances through Saturday night, June 21.

During the five years of its existence, the Pocono Playhouse, under the management of Rowena Stevens, has risen to top place among outstanding summer theaters. This is evidenced by increasing numbers of patrons who drive many miles week after week to attend plays at the modern air-conditioned theater.

The forthcoming season will extend through the middle of September with a different attraction presented weekly starring favorite personalities of stage and screen, supported by an all professional resident company.

Productions will be under the direction of John O'Shaughnessy and Richard Bender, both of whom have served in that capacity in former seasons at the playhouse. Press relations will be handled by Dixie Lee.

When you consider the masses employed by the concern; realize the operations originate here and know the $2,500,000 business is transacted right here in the Stroudsburgs, with deposits made in local banks and disbursements sent out from the local office—the picture vividly tells the story of Waring Enterprises' contribution to Monroe County, financially, socially and prestige-wise.

Nazi Shell Put Valterschamp Out Of Baseball But V.A. Training Turned Him Into Mechanic

Overhauling an automobile engine is a lot different from leading a squad of infantry men in the mountains of northern Italy. Former Staff Sgt. John G. Valterschamp, Stroudsburg RD2, will tell you that is a world of difference.

As you watch the husky, genial auto mechanic working at the Scheller and Kitchen garage you notice no outward signs of a physical handicap. Yet, John is a disabled veteran whose left shoulder bears the scars of wounds from German shrapnel, and his story is basic proof that the Veterans Administration on-the-job training program has been of real value to disabled veterans, employers and the community.

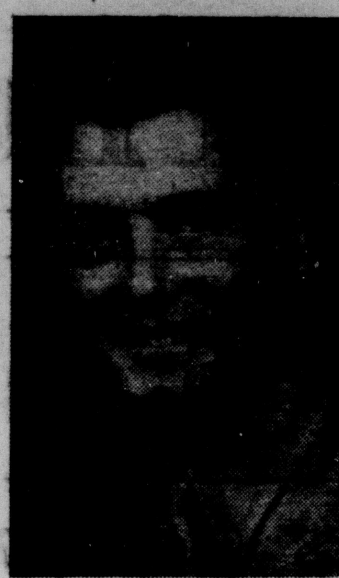

After John left school he worked as a construction laborer in the Stroudsburg area. Whenever he got the opportunity he played baseball and his ambition was to turn his natural aptitude for the game into a sports career. This ambition was partially realized in the summer of 1941, when he was hired by the Butler, Pa., baseball team as a regular pitcher. However, Uncle Sam had other ideas, and it wasn't long before John was wearing a different type of uniform and learning to throw hand grenades instead of the familiar baseball.

John became proficient in the use of infantry weapons and was eventually assigned to Fort Benning, Ga., where he instructed officer candidates in the use of the machine gun. In July of 1944 he was shipped overseas as a combat replacement.

Valterschamp served as a presidential guard to the late Franklin D. Roosevelt when he welcomed the President of Ecuador and also served in the same capacity at the official presentation of a U.S. sub-chaser to the government of Holland.

After waiting at the replacement depot in Naples for a short while, John was sent to join the 133rd Infantry Regiment of the 34th Division. This division was part of the American Fifth Army under General Clark.

September, 1944, saw the beginning of the Allied campaign to drive the Germans out of Italy. This bitter and costly campaign was waged in the rugged Apennine Mountains, certainly one of the war's toughest terrains. The objective was to push the Nazis out of the mountains and into the Po Valley where the terrain was more favorable for mechanized armor.

The Germans resisted stubbornly, however, and Allied losses were heavy. Replacements were hard to secure because the battle for the Rhineland was being waged at the same time. The race to reach the Po Valley before Winter set in failed; the Allies were just not strong enough to get across the final barrier to which the enemy clung. Winter arrived and both sides dug in. Except for small patrol actions, the war remained static in this area.

By March of 1945 the campaign got under way again. It was basically an infantry war, a struggle of man against man, patrol against patrol, mortar against mortar. Gradually the Allies pushed forward towards the city of Bologna which was a key point in the valley below.

On April 30, 1945, Sergeant Valterschamp was part of a platoon which was moving forward along a road which was under heavy fire from German batteries on the heights. Suddenly two or three shells burst on the ground near the platoon. Eleven men, including the company commander, were killed; John and another soldier were wounded.

Nine days later the Germans surrendered unconditionally in Italy. John Valterschamp at this point was in an army hospital receiving treatment for his left shoulder which had been torn and damaged by shrapnel from the shells. Finally, after being hospitalized for six months, the Medical Section decided that his wounds had healed sufficiently to warrant discharge, and on Oct. 31, 1945, John Valterschamp became a civilian once again.

Because of his weakened shoulder, John had to give up his plan to resume his career in professional baseball. For the same reason he could not return to his old job as a construction laborer.

John found that a training opportunity to learn the job of automobile mechanic was available at the Scheller and Kitchen garage. He then contacted the Veterans Administration and was given an appointment at the Veterans Guidance Center where a series of tests showed that John had the necessary aptitudes for mechanical work. The V.A. medical consultant reviewed John's medical records and approved the employment objective of automobile mechanic as being medically feasible for him.

A representative of the Education and Training Section visited the garage and approved it as being an excellent training facility.

Soon afterwards, John began his apprenticeship, which included instruction on-the-job by skilled journeymen in addition to a correspondence course in the theory of auto mechanics.

Today, John is a highly skilled automobile mechanic, thanks to on-the-job training. He has a steady job in which he is tremendously interested and one that is entirely compatible with his disability. Scheller and Kitchen have a capable, trustworthy and dependable employee. The Veterans Administration, with justifiable pride, has been able to close John's case, and mark his folder "Rehabilitated."

Young People Looking Ahead To S.A. Camp

The Salvation Army children are again thinking of camp this year. The first group to go this year are the Sunbeams. These girls go for one week, and the fee is $8 per child.

The Salvation Army has received donations for this work. The Elks sent a check for $50, the American Legion $35, and the CLU $25.

This is of course a beginning. They have more than enough to cover the Sunbeam period, but the boys' fees have increased this year as well as the Girl Guides. The boys' fee is $15 for the 10 day period, the Corps Cadet is $14 for ten days and the Girl Guides is also $14 for the ten day period. In order to send the children who really need this camping experience money will be needed to meet the cost.

Fifty-three were sent to camp last year through the generosity of Monroe County clubs, individuals and firms.

Vet Directors Select New State Officers

Representatives from veterans affairs offices throughout the Commonwealth concluded the opening session of their annual conference last night at the Penn-Stroud hotel.

Kenneth J. Guest, 1952 president of the State Association of County Directors of Veterans Affairs, officially opened the current conference at 9 a.m. yesterday.

Local city and county officials greeted the delegates, after which complete reports were heard from sectional vice presidents of the organization.

The appointment of a nominating committee for new officers occupied the remainder of the morning session.

Announcement of new officers was made by the committee during the afternoon session.

Taking office for the 1952-53 year will be: President, Roy A. Alexander, Adams County; secretary-treasurer, William G. Porter, Mercer; chaplain, Joseph D. Benson, Warren; Sargeant of arms, Michael Ferko, McKean, and vice-president, Nelson W. Norwood, Carbon.

Appointed to serve as regional vice-presidents were Richard J. Murray, Bucks County, Eastern director; J. Harold Gibb, Cambria County, Western director; and Charles E. Mahaffie, Lycoming County, Central director.

Reports from two committee heads were heard yesterday.

These were Norman L. John's report on legislative actions and Howard Cochran's report from the special committee on the constitution and by-laws.

A round-table discussion on the administration of veterans affairs was held between 1 and 2:15 p.m. The delegates then took a tour of the Poconos.

At 6 p.m. the entire delegation was entertained at dinner by the George N. Kemp post of the American Legion.

Cyclist, 78, Injured In Crash Here

A 78-year-old Berks County man had a motorcycle mishap yesterday morning at Milford Crossing, East Stroudsburg.

Jerome Huey, 28 Marshall Ave., Stony Creek Mills, was operating his motorcycle northward on N. Courtland St., police said, when he decided to turn left into King St.

Just as he was about to make the turn the elderly man "apparently became confused by oncoming traffic," police said their investigation indicated.

He gave the vehicle a quick turn to the right, upset, landed on the pavement with a split scalp.

Huey was taken to Monroe County General Hospital for treatment of the injury.

Hospital authorities said last night the man was released immediately following treatment.

Soil Projects In Progress

Mrs. Young Turns Detective, Learns Who Abandoned Kittens

Four weeks ago Mrs. Eddie Young set out to do a little "detective work" on her own.

Mrs. Young, with her husband, serves as caretaker of the SPCA farm on Foxtown Hill.

The night of May 12, the Youngs were asked to come to downtown Stroudsburg and pick up a large box containing six kittens which had been left on the doorstep of a local store.

It was after the kittens had been safely taken to the farm that Mrs. Young began to get disturbed about the whole thing.

She decided to find out where the kittens had come from; who was responsible for leaving them abandoned on the step without food, and, if possible, do something about it.

This week, Mrs. Ellen Albenzi, SPCA head for Monroe County, announced that, through Mrs. Young's efforts as a detective, the "persons had been apprehended."

They were "talked to" by borough authorities and fined for abandoning the kittens, Mrs. Albenzi concluded.

Driver Posts Bond After Car Strikes, Injures RD3 Woman

A charge of assault and battery with a motor vehicle was filed against a Brooklyn man yesterday after Mrs. Martha Farrer, 63, Stroudsburg RD 3, was injured by a car on Route 611 a mile north of Stroudsburg yesterday.

The accident occurred at 11:15 a.m. Stroudsburg State police said the woman walked across the highway and into the side of the car.

She suffered multiple face cuts, and possible fractures of the skull and ribs, police said. She was taken by ambulance to the General Hospital, East Stroudsburg, where her condition was reported satisfactory.

The woman was unconscious when the ambulance arrived, police said, and was lying in the middle lane of the highway.

The driver, Samuel Germansky, 42, a salesman, was driving north when he saw the woman. The car ahead swerved, apparently to avoid striking the woman, Germansky said, and he also swerved to the left.

Police said, however, that the woman walked into the side of Germansky's auto.

He was taken before Justice of the Peace William N. Walton, Stroudsburg, where he posted $2,500 appearance bond. He was released pending further court action.

Delay Is Dangerous

Pennsylvania is getting ready to prosecute governing officials of 37 of its municipalities.

The charge is that they have failed to make plans for sewage treatment works. All communities were given two years to draw up and file such plans, and the period is up on June 1 of this year.

Prosecuting the municipal officials will be unpleasant business. Fines may be as much as $100 for each councilman, etc., plus $10 a day until the law is obeyed.

There may be extenuating circumstances in some cases.

But—

The State Department of Justice should really crack down on all officials who cannot show good reason for their delay.

The State began its efforts to clean up the streams back in 1937. It didn't try very hard at that time, but all polluters of the streams were at least reminded that something would have to be done.

Ten years later the pure streams law was dusted off, set on its feet and put to work. All municipalities and other polluters have now had at least four years' warning that the State means business.

Nobody wants to be too hard-boiled about this thing, but it could be kicked around until it got lost. Too much delay could be fatal.

Politics Belong in the Home Too

Guest Editorial By G. L. Smrz

Are there non-voters in your family?

Recently at a meeting to discuss the need for competence and honesty in government, a leading Pennsylvania industrial leader said, "My God, I'm just beginning to realize that in my immediate family there are SEVEN persons who never vote.

"There's my brother, his wife, son, and daughter who go to Florida every year just before the November elections. That's four votes. My son has never voted because he came of age after entering the armed forces. My sister doesn't vote because she hates politicians. Then there's my wife who thinks politics are silly.

"I haven't failed to vote in 35 years but it's no damn wonder my precinct never has much effect on an election."

Are there non-voters in your family too? Many of our wives, bless 'em, feel that voting is a man's business. They say they aren't interested in politics. Perhaps if we were to explain that our future welfare, the amount of money we have in years to come, even the kind of job you work at, may depend upon how good a government we have, it would bring home the fact that voting for competent, honest government IS their business after all.

Political experts tell us that very often bad public officials are elected by GOOD PEOPLE—who don't vote. Their missing votes are the answer to better government.

Won't you "bird-dog" a few of these votes each month? Start at home. In most cases it requires only a suggestion to turn a non-voter into a 100 per cent American citizen.

Often the reason for not voting is based on beliefs that no longer apply to present day conditions. Single-handedly you can increase the votes in your town merely by asking your relatives, friends and neighbors:

"Are you registered?"

"Do you vote at EVERY election?"

"Will you vote at the next one?"

Politics belong at home, too, because good government is EVERYONE'S business.

These Days - - By George E. Sakolsky

A Permanent WPA I am having a wonderful time reading Paul Hoffman's book "Peace Can Be Won." Paul Hoffman is full of ideas and some of them represent a novel concept of the role of the United States. He is a business man who in recent years has devoted himself to the international side of the New Deal.

Hoffman, who once headed ECA, seems to favor a permanent international WPA, a giving, provisioning agency by which the United States takes care of its dependents. In this work, he has been associated with Averell Harriman, who aspires to the Presidency. One of Hoffman's plans is to give to the head of that agency Cabinet rank—which makes it not a temporary but a permanent agency. This is what he says:

"... I should like to recommend most urgently to the American people and to Congress that an Overseas Economic Administration be formed to administer all aid and technical assistance programs abroad; that this administration have a large measure of control over the policies of such lending agencies as the Export-Import Bank; that United States representatives to all international economic organizations be responsible to it; and that this administration have equal rank with the other departments of the Government, such as State, Commerce, Interior and that its administrator have Cabinet status."

Up to now, most Americans have assumed that our aid to Europe and the rest of the world is temporary; that we are giving charity to those countries who have suffered the consequences of war. The billions so employed were a gift from the American taxpayer to former allies now in distress. That was the purpose of the Marshall Plan, which was translated into ECA. Point Four is charity on a broader scale, aid being given to countries that have not particularly suffered from war but which can use any aid that is going around on the assumption that there can be no harm in taking what comes for free.

Paul Hoffman, as a realist, denies the temporary characteristics of this aid. He has been handing out our money for so long that he has apparently reached the conclusion that the Europeans will never give up so good a thing as getting billions for nothing. If we are stuck with it, Hoffman figures we might as well organize an Overseas Economic Administration with a chair at the Cabinet table.

An organization of such rank would not only be permanent but it would equal the State Department. For instance, Hoffman would have the "United States representatives to all international economic organizations be responsible to it; and that this administration have equal rank with the other departments of the Government, such as State, Commerce, Interior and that its administrator have Cabinet status."

Hoffman blueprints his plan: "... I recommend that this proposed Overseas Economic Administration take over the present setup of ECA; that it absorb the Point Four program now administered by the State Department; that it supervise at least the economic side of all sums to be spent on European rearmament under the Mutual Defense Assistance Program. Moreover, American representation in the World Bank, International Trade Organization and in all other international government bodies dealing with the world economy would receive its policy direction from such an Overseas Economic Administration."

I do not know whether Paul Hoffman's plans have been taken seriously by anybody in the present Administration or whether he has abandoned them. The book was written in 1951, while only a year ago, is a great distance in the thinking of a politician. Most of them shift their grounds when the going gets tough on an idea—and this concept of a permanent international WPA, a permanent funnel through which our wealth leaks to Europe, Asia and Africa and all the commissions, committees and boards in existence and to be conceived—this concept is not as good an idea in 1952 as it was in 1951.

But the trouble is that once an idea like this gets rolling, somebody who likes to spend billions puts his heart into it and before you know it, up go the taxes.

Washington Report

—by Fulton Lewis, Jr.

Washington— I use this space to express my grief that Senator Guy M. Gillette, Democrat of Iowa, failed to call Paul Hensley Appleby as a witness before his subcommittee investigating elections.

I was really loaded for this one, having placed Appleby in a special niche for personal attention ever since 1933 when he began trotting around at the heels of Henry Wallace and the assorted Communists in the department of agriculture such as Alger Hiss, Lee Pressman, Nathan Witt, John Abt and others.

Appleby was in town, but the subcommittee, trying to disengage itself from public slaughter after harassing Senator Joseph R. McCarthy with prospective witnesses who turned out to be in insane asylums, had to postpone Appleby's appearance.

Appleby, now dean of the School of Public Administration at Syracuse University, said he couldn't wait. We filed a statement with the Gillette subcommittee, but it is not likely to be included in the public record. Senator Herman Welker, Republican of Idaho, objected.

What puzzles me is why Senate committees are still calling on professors like Appleby to advise them on public matters. I tried to resolve my bewilderment by asking the subcommittee staff just who had hired Appleby to offer advice on how our national elections should be conducted, and how much his services are costing us taxpayers. Everybody ducked. Nobody knew. But somebody invited him.

There is one clue. In a public statement at the time of Appleby's arrival in Washington, Senator Gillette announced that the professor was the next witness, and that he had been helping the subcommittee for some time in preparing remedial legislation for our election laws.

The best I could get out of the Senator's office is that Appleby actually had no connection with the subcommittee, but had been asked to offer suggestions. I'm told the Senator didn't ask him; no other Senator on the subcommittee admits asking him; nobody on the staff admits issuing an invitation. So you can see why I remain puzzled.

Appleby will go down in history as the author of a scintillating remark made in 1946 at a time that the nation was trying to rid itself of Communist leeches.

on the public payroll. He said: "Government employees have just as much right to be a Communist as a Democrat or a Republican."

Congressman Fred Bradley of Michigan inserted Appleby's deathless prose in the Congressional Record, January 24, 1946.

Appleby was on the Department of Agriculture payroll for 11 years. Later he progressed to the Bureau of the Budget, although his only experience in fiscal matters was what he got as a one-time publisher and editorial writer for a weekly newspaper. While assistant director of the Bureau of the Budget, from 1944 to 1947, funds for the U. S. Civil Service Commission investigative staff were sequestered. The Civil Service Commission had been alerted to the Communist menace. Senator Karl Mundt, Republican of South Dakota, then a representative, charged that the Bureau of the Budget "crippled" the investigative arm of the Civil Service Commission and the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

In 1946, while Appleby was Assistant boss of the Bureau of the Budget, the house Civil Service Commission issued a report which stated:

"It is worthy to note that the Bureau of the Budget has been unwilling to approve adequate funds for the investigative staff. Budget Bureau officials George F. Schwarzwalder and Weldon Cooper will be remembered as having been strangely active some years ago in urging the liquidation of subversive files in the Army, Navy and Civil Service. Subversive files according to Schwarzwalder, 'should have a lean and hungry look.' He is also credited with having written the executive order which blanketed thousands of OWI and OSS employees into the State Department and did more than any single act to change the complexion of this department."

I'm not through with Appleby, but we'll sit it out for now to give the committee a chance to explain.

Looking At Life —by Erich Brandeis

Like all newspapermen I am an inveterate and incurable snooper: I love to stick my nose into other people's business, and by so doing I think I have learned much more about life than I ever did in college.

Do try it sometime. It's good for you.

But never let the snooper know that you ARE snooping on them.

If you do they'll immediately stop being themselves and try to be something else—something that they want you to believe they are.

The other day I was having my dinner in the Hotel Alexander in Hagerstown, Md.

At the next table there was a very elegant couple. star her beautiful 17 year old dght... The German Gov't is hedging on reimbursing the victims of Hitler's savagery. The most conservative obse—this one at lunch at Big Meadows Lodge, 3,560 feet up in Shenandoah National Park.

Another married couple next to my table. They were both in the sixties and both looked like—oh, like almost anybody. Just nice people.

All through the meal they never said a word and never smiled. They just looked out of the picture window into the wonderful Blue Ridge Mountains of Virginia.

They were waited on by a very cute little waitress whom the husband tried his damndest to impress with his irresistibility. And she seemed to be quite willing to be impressed.

While he thought he was very clever about his flirtation, the wife, of course, was on to him.

But she kept on smiling—with her mouth—although there was a gleam in her eye which seemed to say, "Wait till I get you upstairs."

And, of course, he was smiling, too. But HIS smile said to the waitress "Wait till I get YOU."

When it came time to leave, the man put a dollar bill on the table for the waitress.

Still smiling, his wife exclaimed, "Are you MAD? A dollar tip for a four dollar meal? If there was ever a silly ass you certainly are it!"

She snatched the bill from the table, put it in her purse, took out a quarter, a dime and a nickel and put THEM down for a tip.

The two left, still smiling. But I'd hate to have been in their room when the explosion came.

One thing I did learn right there and then: A woman is never too mad to make a little dough on the side.

Here is another snooping episode—this one at lunch at Big Meadows Lodge, 3,560 feet up in Shenandoah National Park.

Another married couple next to my table. They were both in the sixties and both looked like—oh, like almost anybody. Just nice people.

Hollywood

—by Gene Handsaker

Hollywood—A little man in red-striped pajamas swung into the camera saddle and squinted through the eyepiece. Then he walked into the scene—a couch in a humble rooming house—and lay down. Charlie Chaplin was making added scenes for his newest film, "Limelight."

After he had lain still for perhaps a minute, pretending to sleep, he raised his white-thatched head and said, "Cut!" Charlie is writer, director, producer, composer of background music, wardrobe-selector, and star.

Why does he do so much of the work himself?—you ask moments later in his dressing room. Chaplin, a robe around him now, is surprisingly relaxed and affable—less a mystery man than he has seemed. He grins his famous toothy little grin.

"It's the nature of the beast," he says. "I always have done it that way. It wouldn't be me if I weren't doing that way. It's a one-man show."

"I was two and a half years writing this thing, and another nine months writing the music. I play the piano by ear and put my ideas down on a tape recorder. Then my arranger, Ray Raash, comes in, and I tell him what I want."

The Bishop Clicks The entertainment world has been a miracle of miracles. One of Broadway's ancient beliefs about what constitutes "poison" to an audience has been flattened. The long-held view of radio and video (swallowed whole from the movie folks) that a program slanted toward a thinking public has two strikes on it has been knocked out of the lot. The sensation of television is a clergyman and a sermon! The more so because they have been on an hour and a night of the toughest competition, Tuesday nights at 8 p. m. Bishop Fulton J. Sheen, coming on the video as a top preacher man, has within a few weeks built up one of the largest audiences of the air. Variety could headline it "Parson Panics Airwaves Pix."

That there is such a thing as a sleepless sermon and that, delivered with the glow and forcefulness of the old-time evangelists, has been rediscovered. Bishop Sheen is one of the great preachers of America. He has just about everything, including stage presence, personal charm, a brilliant mind, a fine voice and a real understanding of the value of a punch line and a laugh. Although a Roman Catholic he generalizes his talks so that they are easy to take, regardless of creed or sect. And we predict his success will cause a stirring in the churches of all faiths and soon

There is a victory of dignity over the slapstick, the church over knockabout vaudeville and clarity over pandemonium. It is a sort of triumph of mind over "patter." You could have had 100 to 1 and your money back six months ago if you had wanted to bet that the comics would ever know that a parson was on the air. But not now. The Bishop has clicked. In a day when a good sermon has become extra rare, when nine out of ten public speakers are pretty foggy minded and when the world is in a state of deep perplexity (worried stiff to you) he has demonstrated that human beings have minds, that they thirst for truth and that they are gripped by a spiritual subject treated with occasional comedy relief and handled in a way it can be understood.

bringing into video some additional churches of special magnetism and force. The Bishop has not only the video audiences and producers thinking; he has the churches of the country doing some tall thinking, too. Scholarly, the Bishop seems swell company. Forceful and straight talking, he knows the value of a gag. A holy man, he has the screen qualities of an able actor. He knows more about real showmanship than half the top figures of Broadway. There is a hypnotic quality in his gaze, but is not one that puts anybody to sleep.

Working alone in video without a quiz, a jackpot, a panel, a ballet, a song hit, a seltzer bottle or a tap dancer is close to being regarded as sure death. The video Bishop does it, and for a full half hour, without a moment's interruption even for station identification. He triumphs. Maybe the video audience's love of a knockabout act is reflected, for nobody on any program at the same hour takes the bait that Satan takes. And it isn't merely seltzer and custards. The Man With the Horns and Forked Tail looks worse late Tuesday night than anybody else in video, including the Texas badmen in the Westerns.

Fine Quizzes Taft, Ike On Aid Spending

Harrisburg, (AP)—Gov. John S. Fine said yesterday that a big question in his mind on the foreign aid issue was "the degree of spending" favored by Dwight D. Eisenhower and Sen. Robert A. Taft.

The Pennsylvania Governor, however, emphasized anew at his news conference it was doubtful if he will express a preference for the Republican presidential nomination before the Chicago convention.

The Governor, as chairman of the State's big delegation to the convention, telegraphed each of the 70 delegates and alternates, inviting them to meet Eisenhower this Friday at the retired general's farm near the Gettysburg Battle-field.

The Governor will make arrangements for a later meeting of the delegates and alternates with Sen. Taft. The time and place of the Taft meeting, he said, has yet to be fixed.

After the Taft and Eisenhower meetings, the Governor said he "will sit down and counsel with them (the delegates) and all of us will come to a conclusion as to whom we will support."

By that means, he added, "I believe we will avoid any rancor within the ranks."

The Pennsylvania delegation officially is uninstructed for any candidate. A poll showed 20 favoring Eisenhower, 18 leaning toward Taft with the remaining 32 uncommitted but inclined to follow the Governor's leadership.

Fine met reporters at his office after his return from New York where he conferred with Eisenhower on Sunday. He said a large part of the interview concerned foreign affairs.

A reporter asked the Governor what concerned him most in the field of foreign policy. Fine replied:

"I am concerned about the tremendous expenditures which are being made for foreign economy and foreign armament. Without American solvency there can be neither security nor peace."

Eisenhower, Fine said, "feels, I think, we are at the peak of foreign expenditures." Taft's position on the subject, he said, has been that foreign countries should do more for themselves than they have been doing.

It was at that point that the Governor remarked that a big question in his mind between the two was "the degree of spending" in foreign aid.

"I don't think anyone is for cutting it off," Fine said.

Fine said he would be "perfectly satisfied" with Gen. Douglas MacArthur as the keynote speaker at the national convention but had no specific preference for it.

There was no mention in Fine's telegram to the delegates about expenses. A reporter asked Fine if expenses would be paid by the Eisenhower organization. The Governor laughed off the question without answering it.

Iran Pleads Against Court Interference

The Hague, The Netherlands (AP)—Mohammed Mossadegh, Iran's aged and emotional Premier, pleaded yesterday with the World Court yesterday to keep hands off Iran's billion-dollar wrangle with Great Britain over vital oil production in his desert land.

Speaking at times with great agitation, Mossadegh accused Britain and the Anglo-Iranian Oil Co. of operating a "state within a state" in Iran, of indulging in intrigue and corruption before finally appealing to the International Court of Justice for help after Iran has seized the rich oil properties developed by British capital.

Iran's action was taken as a "sovereign and free country," the Premier asserted, and the court has no power to interfere as the British contend in arguing Iran violated international law. Mossadegh asked the justices to declare themselves incompetent to rule and leave the dispute where it is, no matter how unhappy either party might be.

Atty. Gen. Sir Lionel Heald will present Britain's argument that the agreement between the Anglo-Iranian Oil Co. and the Iranian government actually amounted to a treaty and that Iran had promised to submit treaty disputes to the international court. What the justices will decide possibly may not be known until the end of July.

Sales
Caveat Emptor . . . let the buyer beware! An ancient sales philosophy, reflecting a time when selling was a vicious game barring no malpractice and offering no quarter to buyers lacking wit or experience.

But selling has changed, and the modern salesman knows that such techniques, while frequently effective, do not spell service . . . the vital key in establishing continuous and profitable relations between buyer and seller.

What Is a Salesman?
"Nothing happens until a sale is made." This is an axiom of the professional salesman. But to make a sale in these complex times requires the utmost in knowledge, aptitude and imagination.

The modern salesman must know his product and the complicated processes entering into its manufacture and distribution. He should have a knowledge of advertising, costs and pricing systems. He needs a great deal of personality, tact, poise, honesty and enthusiasm. He should have a genuine interest in people and a deep insight into human nature.

College Training in Sales
Sales is perhaps the most vital step in any business operation, and more and more companies are thinking in terms of scientific selling and college-trained personnel.

As a future salesman you would probably major in marketing, with emphasis on principles of marketing, advertising, wholesale and retail selling, the psychology of selling and advertising, merchandising.

Kefauver Sees Strong Support From Keystone

Harrisburg (AP)—Sen. Estes Kefauver predicted yesterday he will get strong support from the Pennsylvania Democratic delegation in his bid for the party's presidential nomination.

The Tennessee Democrat made the forecast at a news conference held in conjunction with a luncheon meeting with Keystone Democrats here.

Kefauver, who came here with his wife at the request of four Philadelphia Democratic leaders, said he had "every confidence" he could carry Pennsylvania in the presidential election.

Some 200 Democrats from all parts of Pennsylvania attended the luncheon meeting called by Richardson Dilworth, Philadelphia district attorney and a Kefauver supporter. Three other Philadelphia supporters of Kefauver assisted in the meeting.

Both Kefauver and Dilworth emphasized that the meeting had nothing officially to do with the Democratic party organization in Pennsylvania.

"This is just an informal meeting to acquaint delegates with Sen. Kefauver," Dilworth explained.

He said some 29 of the state's 80 Democratic convention delegates, and about 27 alternate delegates attended along with county leaders or their representatives from 56 counties.

Mayor David L. Lawrence, Pittsburgh, Democratic National Committee member, was absent from the luncheon. Asked about this, Kefauver told reporters:

"I understand Mr. Lawrence had graduation exercises to attend in Pittsburgh today."

State Presbyterian Synod Elects Erie Man As Moderator

Chambersburg (AP)—A. Lester Mould, Erie, was chosen yesterday as moderator of the Pennsylvania Synod of the Presbyterian Church as 500 delegates opened a week-long annual meeting.

Mould, an elder of the Church of the Covenant at Erie, succeeds the Rev. W. H. Galbreath, Shippensburg, as presiding officer of the sessions at Wilson College.

Meeting with the synod is the church's Pennsylvania Women's Synodical Missionary Society. Separate sessions of the two organizations will be held daily with a joint meeting each night.

A memorial service for 30 pastors who died since the last meeting was held last night.

Officers Of Anna Logan Begin Term

Anna Logan Society of the General Hospital last night voted to sponsor sale of tickets for the Laurel Ball, with a percentage of their ticket sale going for the benefit of the General Hospital.

Harold Swenson, director of this year's Laurel Blossom festival for the Vacation Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce, spoke to the members concerning the fashion show, the selection of a Laurel Blossom Queen from local princesses, and other highlights of the ball to be held June 25 at Shawnee Inn, and of the suggestion to have the hospital auxiliaries of the county take charge of the individual ticket sales.

The project will be the first for the new administration of the Anna Logan Society which took office last night, and which includes: Mrs. Anna K. Meixell, president; Mrs. William Shearer and Mrs. Harry Sutton, vice presidents; Mrs. Max Stadfeld, secretary; Mrs. John Frank, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Ralph Brodsky, treasurer; Mrs. Kenneth Skelton, assistant treasurer. The meeting followed a covered dish supper at the YMCA for members and their families with Mrs. Robert Miller, president for the past two years, presiding. The invocation was given by Rev. Dr. P. N. Wohlson.

Following the dinner, a summary of the accomplishments of the past two years as reflected in the money raised, and spent, for the hospital by the Anna Logan Society was given in the biennial report of Mrs. James Mader, retiring treasurer.

The group also voted to purchase a radiograph for the hospital, an item requested by the priorities committee of the hospital board and staff. Proceeds from the Laurel Ball ticket sales will be used for this project.

Mrs. Miller presented a certificate of merit from the society to Mrs. Robert Schell for her team, which secured the largest number of members during the past two years. Mrs. Horace Westbrook was voted into honorary membership.

Girl Scouts, Brownies Give To Camp Fund

The Brownie Troop celebrated its first birthday on Friday night when the members of Girl Scout Troop 18, which also meets at the Stroudsburg Methodist Church, joined them in a birthday party.

Three members of the troop, Kay Altomose, Kathleen Kintz, and Sandra Newhart received their year-pins; one new Brownie, Carolyn Majestic, was inducted, and Suzanne Weber received her Brownie wings and flew up to troop 18 where she was welcomed by the leader, Mrs. Merlin Rutt. Mrs. Helen Teeter is Brownie leader.

After the program the Brownies and Scouts served refreshments to their parents.

The parents joined in a collection for the Girl Scout Camp building fund, contributing $6. The two troops voted to contribute the balance in their treasuries to the same fund, with the Girl Scouts giving $4.50 and the Brownies $14.

Mrs. Joseph Jaffee, of Second St., Stroudsburg, is spending a week in New York City with relatives.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

Wow-me, the news was breaking fast last night, and the pictures as well. With five one-column cuts to reckon with, it's liable to take a miracle to have the right labels on the right ones. There are times when it would be much simpler to quote the SHS Mountaineer, "to get back to my ironing."

But the thing is, there are a whole host of people who do a whole lot of work outside of their own homes—and don't even get paid for it. Community service takes a lot of time, and as like Miller said at Anna Logan last night, the husbands should get some of these halos, too, for their patience in putting up with late dinners, skimpy lunches, and endless baby-sitting while their wives go about doing good.

Anyway, it was nice of the Anna Logans to include the husbands in their picnic supper meeting at the close of the year. Enough good viands to take the sting out of bread and jelly for dessert next winter, maybe, while that luscious looking cake in the pantry goes to the bake sale.

Meanwhile there's a whole summer without meetings ahead of us, we keep telling ourselves. And look at that calendar—14 meetings not counting the shindig at Taminet.

Serfass-Haney Wedding At Home Altar, Brodheads ville

Miss Orthen Haney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Haney, of Stroudsburg RD 1, and Charles E. Serfass, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Serfass, of Brodheads ville, were married on Saturday, May 31, at 2 o'clock at the home of the bridegroom's parents.

Rev. J. S. Kistler, pastor emeritus of the Grace Lutheran Church, East Stroudsburg, performed the ceremony.

The bride wore a street-length gown of white lace, with a tight-fitting bodice, worn with a bolero jacket with long tapering sleeves, over a full skirt. She wore a white satin hat with a crown of small white flowers, white shoes, and carried a bridal bouquet of pink roses and white lilies with white streamers.

Capt. Bernard Serfass, ANC, of the U. S. Army Hospital, Fort Lee, Va., a sister of the bridegroom, was maid-of-honor. She wore a street-length gown of grey lace with navy blue accessories and carried a bouquet of yellow roses.

Gordon Haney, of Sciota, brother of the bride, was best man. The ceremony was performed in front of an altar erected at one end of the living room with a large basket of dogwood on top and baskets of gladiolus, iris and other flowers on either side. Music was played by Mrs. Charles Snyder.

The bride's mother wore a green print dress with a corsage of yellow roses and white carnations. A reception for 75 guests followed the ceremony, with a

Afternoon Bridge Club At Morgan's

Portland — Mrs. Harry Morgan was hostess to the afternoon card club at her home on State St. on Thursday afternoon. Prizes for bridge were won by Mrs. Horace Rusing and Mrs. Wallace Hutcheon.

Present were Mrs. John Herring of Carrabell, Fla.; Mrs. Bert Transue, and Mrs. Wallace Hutcheon of Mount Bethel; Mrs. Horace Rusing, Mrs. Ernest Courtney, Mrs. Blair Rusing, Mrs. E. Randall Carpenter, and the hostess.

The club will meet next Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Horace Rusing.

Rehearsal at Sciota

Sciota—Members of the degree team of the Sciota Rebekah Lodge have been asked to meet for rehearsal on Friday, June 13, at 8 p.m.

Next to one of our Frigidaire air conditioning units, I can think of nothing that would have cooled the town more effectively than yesterday's lunch-hour downpour. When I left the office, there wasn't a breeze within miles. An hour later it was necessary (temporarily, at least) to lower two windows.

The attractive blond girl shopping at our cosmetics counter yesterday was Betsy Smith, who recently won national honors for her poetry, and appeared on one of our Wyckoff Shopper broadcasts. She tells me that several listeners asked for copies of the verse read that morning. Betsy graduated just the other evening from Stroudsburg High.

I also glimpsed Zandra Lee, this year's SHS salutatorian, and Margy Shull, lunching Saturday in our Wyckoff Tea Room. Our tea room seems to be a popular mecca for young people these days, and, unless my nose for news deceives me, those four girls dining just inside the door yesterday were also recent graduates. It seems to me girl graduates are prettier with each successive year... a thought in which to glory since my own will probably be in the class of '55.

For the young girl who has a bushel of dreams all centered around parties, dates, and whatever else young girls dream about today (has THAT ever changed, I wonder?) our accessories department offers a new fashion whim as cute as it is practical. It's a handbag in the form of a basket, enameled white and covered in slap-dash style with painted "stickers" from magical, far away places, as well as saucy slogans "Poison," says one... "Shake Well Before Using."

When these glamour baskets first appeared, they were handsomely lined and retailed at $15. Imagine! Today, unlined, they sell at $2.98, and are still so intriguingly different the smart city stores have difficulty keeping them in stock. No doubt about it they're darling for the girl who likes to be in the know and in the new.

Mary Keiper Hosier, our new knitting instructor, arrived for yesterday's Wyckoff Shopper broadcast wearing one of the handsomest navy and gray suits I've ever seen—from her own knitting needles, of course. I envied her, not only because the suit looked so well, but because the studio was more than air conditioned—it was refrigerated. I'm now wondering whether or not I'm brainy enough to be a knit-wit.

Winners Announced In Essay Contest Sponsored By GOP

The names of the winners in the teen-age essay contest sponsored by the Monroe Council of Republican Women have been released, and all of the young people who submitted essays are to be guests of the council at the June Republican Day banquet at Shawnee Inn at 8 o'clock Wednesday night.

Bernette Roan, of Barrett High School, won first place; James Ifft, second and Patricia Burnley, third, both students at Stroudsburg High School, and Carol Ann Kresge, Coolbaugh, fourth.

In addition to the major prizes, two prizes were awarded at each of the participating schools. Theme of this year's essays could be either "Why I Think a Republican Should Be Our Next President," or "The Republican Candidate Should Be —" with the name supplied by the student.

East Stroudsburg High School

winners, Kathleen Yost and David Gerrity who also won the practical politics election, will be crowned as Mr. and Miss Republican at the banquet Wednesday night.

In addition to the winners listed above, other school winners were Emma Possinger and Pat Bowman, Pocono Township High School; Donald Dougherty, Barrett; Harry Dailey, Coolbaugh, and Virginia Hook and Richard Albright, Polk.

The Misses Aimee and Lucie Girard and Mrs. E. H. Calkins served as judges, and Mrs. Adolph Rake was chairman of the essay

Life of Riley

By JIM RILEY
Sports Editor

It is quite possible that the Northampton County American Legion League will hold its annual all-star game in Stroudsburg this season, providing Gordon Giffis field is available and obtainable for night baseball. The circuit annually uses the money derived from this contest to send all the boys in the league to a baseball game at Shibe Park. Tom Carmella, athletic officer at the George N. Kemp American Legion Post is chairman of the committee entrusted with the task of obtaining a suitable field. The game is scheduled to be played on Saturday, July 12.

Stroudsburg High can take pride in the fact that it lost in the District 11 playoffs to the team that went on to win District honors, as Allentown rolled over Hegins Township, after scoring nine runs in one inning in the final playoff session on Saturday. The loss broke a winning streak that had reached 20 games for the Hegins club. Allentown needed three pitchers to stop Hegins, the team that eliminated White Haven, but the Canaries had it in the clutch, as Allentown won its first District 11 baseball title.

Vern Fegley, for ten years head basketball coach at Easton High, recently resigned to take a similar position at Abington High Vern, who is well known in the Stroudsburg-East Stroudsburg area, is a brother to Gail Fegley, Stroudsburg optometrist and softball and bowling performer of note. Vern annually attends the Eastern Pennsylvania Scholastic Coaches Association clinic, which will swing open its doors once again a week from Monday, at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College.

Chet Lucki, leading pitcher with Pocono A.C. at the present time, became the proud father of a bouncing baby boy over the weekend and was passing out cigars prior to Sunday's outing against Portland. Chet is the same fellow who tossed a no-hitter at Roseto, in the Blue Mountain League game recently. Lucki has won all three games that the Pocono A.C. contingent has won thus far this season. Nick Dalassandro, manager of the Roseto entry in the Blue Mountain League, branded as false the reports that he has tossed in the towel as pilot.

Homer, Nick did point out that the rumor first started because of the pressing nature of his work at the bridge construction program in the nearby Delaware River. But, the former West Bangor leader said that reports that he has resigned are absolutely false. Warren "Mag" Loney's four errors in yesterday's softball game were reportedly the result of two much steak last Saturday. However, the Eagles' shortstop put the steak to good use at the plate, as he blasted out four hits in five times at bat.

Ray Steele and Alden "Red" Fetherman may attend the baseball tryout camp to be run by the New York Yankees in Bangor, at Memorial Park, on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of next week. At least one Yankee ivory hunter would like to see the former East Stroudsburg and Stroudsburg athletic stars attend the affair. Steele was touched for 11 hits in six and one-third innings by Kunkletown on Sunday, but a close examination of the box score will at least partially explain the wholesale assault on the promising right hander, who registered 15 strikeouts during the same length of service. Relief hurler Russell "Lindy" Traneus was charged with the loss, as Kunkletown tallied the winning run in the 10th inning.

Jerry Magnuson, former Bangor star outfielder, when the North Atlantic League was still in action, has received his discharge from the Marines and played with East Bangor, in the Blue Mountain League, on Sunday. Jerry, who is reportedly 21 years of age, is scheduled to attend the Yankee tryout school next week. Jim Barnhardt, who had his first shot at organized baseball with Bangor, has been returned to Portsmouth, of the class "B" Piedmont League, by Baltimore, of the International League.

Dave Bessecker, veteran southpaw hurler who pitched Ansonia to victory over West End A.C., on Sunday, in a relief role, was one of the best hurlers in the history of baseball at Pocono High school. Dick Peechatka, veteran right-hander who also rates among the best pitchers ever to come out of Pocono High, also turned in a brilliant relief job on Sunday, as Tannersville took the measure of Redders, 8-7. Peechatka took over the mound duties with only one out and the winning run on second. Dick promptly fanned the next two batters to end the game.

George Dries, fast balling right-hander who did his college pitching at ESSTC, has won three and lost one game for Charleston, of the class "A" Sally League, since being sent from Houston, of the Texas League, to the Pittsburgh Pirates' chain.

Five Teams Entered In Golf Tournament At Tamiment

Bushkill—At least five teams will be represented in the All Organizations golf tournament here at Camp Tamiment today, when service clubs from all sections of Monroe County hold an outing at this local resort.

The five teams entered for certain are Stroudsburg Rotary, Lions, Mount Pocono Rotary and Barrett Lions.

A total of 19 players are entered from the Stroudsburg Rotary and 12 from Stroudsburg Rotary. However, only the four low scores will count in team competition, but everyone is eligible for individual prizes.

Entries may be registered right up to 1 p.m., the time set for the beginning of the tournament.

It was announced last night that there would also be a tournament for women attending the outing.

There will also be fishing, boating and swimming, in addition to other sports, for all those attending the affair.

Rizzuto Leads In Balloting For All-Star Shortstop Post

Chicago, (AP)—Phil Rizzuto of the New York Yankees jumped into the American League shortstop lead yesterday in first returns of the balloting for the July 8 All-Star baseball game lineup.

Rizzuto polled 4,278 votes, 662 more than "Chico" Carrasquel of the Chicago White Sox, who beat out the Yankee ace for All-Star honors last year. Carrasquel had 3,616.

Fan voting began last Friday and will continue until midnight June 27.

"Hank" Sauer, the Chicago Cubs' slugging hero, continued to lead his National League left field rivals and also kept in front as the poll's top vote-getter with 5,948.

Leaders for each position:

Spivey Pleads Innocent To Count

New York (AP)—Bill Spivey, Kentucky's towering former All-American star, pleaded innocent yesterday to any part of the big basketball fix scandal.

His attorney said he gave himself up voluntarily to answer perjury charges rather than be treated like a "Roman captive in chains."

General Sessions Judge Francis L. Valente released the seven-foot Spivey on $2,500 bond to await trial. No date was set but the defense demanded an early hearing.

Bazzano Gains Nod
Brooklyn, N. Y. (AP)—Tommy Bazzano, 150, of Middletown, Conn., won a split eight round decision last night from Ted Murray of New York in a fast, hard-fought main event at Ft. Hamilton. Murray weighed 146½.

Carmella To Select Field
Nazareth—Tom Carmella, athletic officer of the George N. Kemp American Legion Post, was named to select a field for the annual Northampton County American Legion League all-star game at a circuit meeting here last night.

Carmella would like to locate the game in Stroudsburg, if possible, and it will draw fans from the entire Lehigh Valley.

Indians Buy Majeski
Cleveland (AP)—The Cleveland Indians bought veteran third baseman "Hank" Majeski from the Philadelphia Athletics yesterday. The amount of cash involved was not announced.

Hogan, Burke Join Hospital List

Dallas (AP)—Ben Hogan and Jackie Burke turned up with stiff necks yesterday to match Sam Snead's swollen knuckle, giving a hospital aspect to the National Open Golf Tournament opening Thursday.

However, most of the advance arrivals for this 52nd blue ribbon championship were complaining of a pair of more common maladies—intense heat and Northwood's tough par 70.

Hogan, the defending champion who is seeking his fourth title in five years, and Burke, the season's leading money winner, developed cricks in their necks over the week end, apparently from air conditioning.

French Champion Decisions Small

Brooklyn, (AP)—Pierre Langlois, 15½, the welterweight champion of France, last night won a 10-round split decision over Georgia Small, 150, New York, in the feature bout at Eastern Parkway Arena.

Upset
The result came in the nature of an upset since Small was installed as a 2-1 favorite. The triumph was Langlois' 51st in 63 professional fights, while for Small the defeat was his 10th in 55 battles.

Greene-Dreher High Honors All Athletes

Newfoundland—Certificates of proficiency in athletics were awarded to members of teams of the Greene-Dreher-Sterling school by Coach Henry "Hank" Arneberg at the final assembly program at the school recently.

The honored athletes and the sports in which they excelled followed: (B—varsity basketball; JB junior varsity basketball; D—baseball)

Individuals
Robert Adams (B), Jack Barry (B-D), Scot Brown (B-D), Jack Davis (B-D), Francis Curtis (B-D), William Lee (B-D), Ronald Kinney (B-D), Raymond Phillips (B-D).

Student managers John Hanlon (B), Larry Beischer and James Campbell (JB) were also awarded certificates as were the school's cheerleaders, Marilyn Grimm, Marie Felton, Esther Phillips, Frances Michl, Mary Lou Loomis, Janice Portas, Janet Singer and Bonnie Rohrbacher.

Chapman Wins French Golf Crown

Paris (AP)—Dick Chapman, 41-year-old Pinehurst, N.C., tournament veteran who lost his British amateur title last month, rallied under pressure yesterday to win his second France amateur golf championship from collegian Billy Maxwell of Odessa, Tex., U.S. amateur king, four and three, with a display of sub-par golf.

Bearing down as the pressure mounted, Chapman repeatedly scrambled out of sand and heather to overcome his 22-year-old opponent with the long booming drives. The part-time banker salesman, a seasoned Walker Cup competitor, shot 12 birdies and strayed over par only once in the 33 holes.

Chapman was 11 under par and Maxwell six under the 37-37-74 par for the beautiful 6,605-yard Moutfaine course, north of Paris.

One down at the luncheon

break, Chapman finished strong. He took the lead on the first afternoon nine, quickly won the 29th and 31st with birdie two and closed out the match on the 33rd with a birdie four while Maxwell strayed in the rough three times to take a six on the final hole.

Young Maxwell, who still has a year to go at North Texas State College, left immediately after the match to compete in the U.S.

Open at Dallas. As the American amateur champ, he was exempt from qualifying.

Chapman, who won the French title in 1939 when Maxwell was a kid in the fourth grade and the American title the next year, never tried for it again until this year. He succeeds to the championship won last year by Bobby Knowles of Brookline, Mass. Chapman eliminated Knowles in the semi-finals Sunday to advance into the all-American final.

Circuit Holds Legal Meeting

Saylorsburg—A special meeting of officers of the Pocono Mountains League was held here at the Diamond Inn last night, with the main topic of conversation being the legal phase of contracts and team franchises.

However, after a lengthy discussion, the entire matter was deferred until Monday, when it will be taken up at the regular monthly meeting of the league, at the Bartonstone Hotel.

Attending
Clinton Getz, president of the league, was in charge of the meeting. Other officials present were Harry Janon, first vice-president; Morgan "Morg" Butz, second vice president; John Wernett, secretary; M. N. Warner, treasurer, and Elmer D. Christine, league legal advisor.

Lloyd "Jake" Buskirk and Jim Correll, representing the West End A. C. entry in the league, also attended the meeting on a matter of unannounced business.

Johnson Stops Mann In Fourth

Trenton, N.J. (AP)—George Johnson, 152½, Trenton, won by a technical knockout over Bobby Mann, 155, Trenton, in the fourth round of a 10-stanza main event at Trenton Arena last night.

Felton Stops Brown

Chicago, (AP)—Lester Felton, Detroit welterweight making a comeback for title contention, scored his third straight victory last night by stopping slugging Johnny Brown of Chicago in the seventh round of a scheduled 10 at Rainbow Arena.

Sauer Takes Over Top Spot In National League Hit Race

New York, (AP)—"Hank" Sauer, who has hit hard but not often during his seven years in the big leagues, is the surprise leader in the National League batting race.

The big Chicago Cub outfielder, only a .270 lifetime hitter, currently tops all National League batsmen with a .347 average.

Sauer, who also leads in home runs with 14 and runs batted in with 54, picked up 18 points during the week to move up from third place, Joe Adcock, last week's leader, still is on the shelf with a knee injury, and dropped out of the top 10.

However, Sauer's position is none too secure as Brooklyn's Jackie Robinson moved to within two points of the Cubs' slugger, Robinson, sixth last week, climbed into second place by boosting his average 18 points to .345.

In the American League, Boston's Dom DiMaggio recaptured the number one batting spot from Al Rosen, Cleveland third baseman. Averages including game pace. Bobby Shantz of the Philadelphia A's has leaped his way to a brilliant 10-1 record in the American League while Brooklyn's "Preacher" Roe, unbeaten in five decisions, is the top National League hurler.

Gavilan Signs To Defend Welterweight Crown

By Ralph Bernstein

Philadelphia (AP)—Welterweight champion "Kid" Gavilan yesterday signed to defend his title against Philadelphia's unbeaten Gil Turner in a 15-round bout here July 7 that the promoter predicts will draw $350,000 without the benefit of television or radio receipts.

Promoter Herman Taylor, a bitter foe of television in boxing, said there will be absolutely no home television or radio broadcast of the 15-round title fight at Municipal Stadium on the eve of major league baseball's All-Star game.

"Here's a good chance to see what a real boxing attraction can draw without TV or radio," Taylor said. "We have the world's champion and the number one challenger meeting in what should be a spectacular fight. I honestly feel—and I pledge my 30 years of promotion experience on this—that this fight will draw 45,000 people and will bring in $300,000 to $350,000 at the gate. It doesn't need TV and radio money."

The promoter said there was a "very slim" chance he might relent and permit some 70 suitably equipped theaters to telecast the fight, but only to points at least 90 miles from Philadelphia. Tickets, which go on sale Monday, will be priced from $3 to $15.

"Truthfully, I'm not even really interested in theater TV," Taylor went on. "It will take a very big offer to make me change my mind. I want to stage a show that people have to come to the stadium to see, or read about in their newspapers."

Gavilan, who has won 61 fights, lost 12 and fought four draws in his 97 fights, will receive 37 and one-half per cent of the gate. Turner, unbeaten in 31 fights, including 25 by knockout or TKO, is in for 20 per cent of the take.

Red Sox Increase Lead Over Yanks To Game

Boston (AP)—The Boston Red Sox moved a full game ahead of the second-place New York Yankees yesterday by overcoming a four-run deficit for a 9-8 triumph over the Detroit Tigers.

Home runs by former Bostonians Walt Drobot and Don Lenhardt, the latter with three mates aboard, were in vain as the Sox scored the winning run in the sixth inning on an error by former teammate Johnny Pesky.

The Tigers chased left hander Mel Parnell in the opening inning when they scored four times.

The Sox came right back with five of their own runs in the second as they rapped six singles and bombed starter Marlin Stuart from the box.

The Bostonians added a pair in the third and appeared to have a safe margin.

However, Lenhardt, bashed his grand slam homer off the light tower beyond the fence in left to pull the Tigers into an 8-7 lead.

Jimmy Piersall's first homer of the campaign came in the fourth, just slipping by the foul pole into the seats in right to tie it up.

Dom DiMaggio was on second after a single and a sacrifice and "Hoot" Evers was on first with a walk when Pesky let George Kell's grounder go through him for a two base error which allowed DiMaggio to score what turned out to be the winning run.

Steele Earns Two Awards In Athletics

Ray "Bud" Steele, one of the most outstanding athletes in the history of East Stroudsburg High School, received the "Babe Ruth Foundation" award at the recent graduation ceremonies in addition to the Student Council Athletic award, as announced previously.

The "Babe Ruth" award, given to the top athlete in thousands of high schools throughout the country, is for general ability in any branch of athletics.

Student Council award is for leadership, cooperation on and off the field and for general good conduct on the athletic front.

Both awards were presented to Steele by Carl T. Secor, supervising principal of East Stroudsburg public schools.

Steele has been offered scholarships to such colleges as Lehigh, Lafayette, Muhlenberg, North Carolina State, Syracuse and Moravian.

Ray is also the prime target for several major league baseball scouts, as the young right hander has made his mark as a pitcher in baseball as well as a center in basketball.

Steele, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Steele, of Lehman Lake, Bushkill, celebrated his 18th birthday last Saturday.

Veteran Driver Quits Racing

Chicago (AP)—Melvin "Tony" Bettenhausen, national champion of the American Automobile Association, yesterday announced his retirement from racing except for the 500-mile Indianapolis classic.

Bettenhausen, 55, father of four children, said that after 14 years of speed driving he was quitting all competition in big-car dirt, midwest and stock car racing to concentrate on business.

He failed to qualify in the AAA 100-mile race at Milwaukee Sunday, but said this had nothing to do with his decision to quit racing.

Bettenhausen also said his decision was not affected by the fact he crashed into a wall at Indianapolis this year in one of his attempts to qualify for the 500.

In the Memorial Day race, he finished 24th due to starter failure on a pit stop.

Coach Changes Jobs

Chapel Hill, N.C. (AP)—Tom Scott, University of North Carolina basketball coach, announced yesterday that he had resigned to take over as coach of the Phillips Petroleum "66" Oilers AAU team at Bartlesville, Okla.

Steele has been offered scholarships to such colleges as Lehigh, Lafayette, Muhlenberg, North Carolina State, Syracuse and Moravian.

Ray is also the prime target for several major league baseball scouts, as the young right hander has made his mark as a pitcher in baseball as well as a center in basketball.

Business-Like Loans Made To Youths Help To Remove Temptation For Stealing

By Howard De Wald Central Press Correspondent

Phoenix, Ariz. — The court and a Phoenix club have gone into the loan business to help prevent juvenile delinquency.

Youngsters who need cash aren't tempted to steal. An application to the Youth Treasury Chest in Maricopa county juvenile court loans them the money as quickly as an adult gets it from the most eager commercial loan company and the painful part has been eliminated. There are no carrying charges and interest.

The juveniles repay the loans on their terms and the court is careful to see no hardship is involved. The effect is a quick boost to good character structure in the youngsters and a steady attack on the juvenile delinquency rate.

"Many youngsters feel there is nowhere to turn when they need money, so they steal," Judge Charles C. Bernstein of juvenile court says. "One theft is followed by another until the offender becomes a confirmed criminal and winds up in a reformatory or prison. By eliminating the necessity for stealing we're eliminating potential criminals."

One unstable 16-year-old boy had a record of going to pieces when under pressure and stealing to get money to tide him over the rough spots. Recently his sister lost her job, couldn't pay the rent, and the landlord was holding her clothes as security.

The court feels the boy was headed for another brush with the law when he remembered hearing about the loan fund and applied for $37 to pay his sister's rent.

A 16-year-old high school girl from a broken home became pregnant and the boy's parents blocked any attempts at marriage. She bore the child, placed it for adoption, and was too ashamed to return to school.

She started drifting toward a life which would have caused her much trouble until she had a talk with juvenile authorities and arranged a $175 loan to pay a beauty school fee. She'll start repaying that amount after completing schooling and getting a job.

When details of the loan are completed and a check is issued for the amount needed, the juvenile is given a payment record book similar to those issued by loan companies and banks.

The Western Saddle club has a message printed on the payment book. It reads:

"Prompt repayment of your loan guarantees other young people the same opportunity you have been given. Credit is based on character. May this venture be a stepping stone to your successful career."

FFA Sends Large Delegation To Summer Convention This Week At Penn State College

Twenty-nine Future Farmers of America from the Poconos are slated to attend the 1952 Summer convention of the State organization this week.

The local group will leave for State College from Brodheadsville at 6:45 a. m. today.

Most of the boys are expected to compete in contests or educational demonstrations in one or more of the following fields: Livestock, dairy products, poultry, forestry, farm mechanics, tractor driving, agronomy, plant diseases and insects, wild life management, horticulture, public speaking and chapter procedure.

Attending from Stroudsburg are Jack Harps, Herbert Courtwright, Thomas Carson and Howard Blakeslee; from Pocono Township, Robert Fields, Richard Graeber and James Sebring.

Representing Bangor will be Paul Lockard, Russell Fuls, Ernest Reimer, Orrin Stevens, Frank Miller, Daniel Haas and Elwood Steinmetz.

Selected as members of the 100 piece FFA State band are Clarence LeBar, of Bangor; John Frailey, of Pocono, and William Lotz, Stroudsburg.

Members of the State FFA chorus will be Charles Hoffman, of Chestnuthill, and Gene Reish, of Stroudsburg.

Delegates to the State association meeting are Alton Kleintop, of Polk, and Collins Brong, Chestnuthill.

The following teachers will accompany the group: George Ott, Bangor; Frank Varney, Chestnuthill; Theodore Hoffman, Pen Argyl; Clifford Stroud, Polk; Elmer Veety, Stroudsburg, and Wilmer B. Frisbie, county adviser.

The convention ends Thursday, June 12.

Editor,
The Daily Record,
Stroudsburg, Pa.

Dear Sir:

A peculiar new brand of "mottoism" has come into being with the advent of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower as a civilian. The beginning of Mr. Eisenhower's ultimate downfall as a liberal was evidenced in his echo of the so-called "States-right" interests in the Tideland Oil controversy, in which the then "Gen." Eisenhower played right into the hands of the selfish interests.

The change from the liberal-minded and intelligent human being Mr. Eisenhower had formerly deluded his fellow Americans into believing himself to be to his new role of boot-licker for Sen. Robert Alphonso Taft, "Libel" Joe McCarthy and the various other demagogues now holding sway in Republican political circles, was further evidenced in Mr. Eisenhower's "homecoming" speeches in Abilene.

Without flinching, he sidestepped every important issue thrust at him by newsmen and refused to meet directly the question of "McCarthyism" on the grounds that he did not wish to indulge in "personality" analysis.

He has gone down the line with Taft on the issue of a Fair Employment Practices commission and has otherwise bent over backward to convince all and sundry that, at heart, he really is a "Republican" after all.

In his kowtowing assurances that he "never really knew a New Dealer" during the time Roosevelt held office; that he "never heard President Roosevelt express a political opinion except over the radio" and that he never voted "for a Democrat" in his life, civilian Eisenhower has begun to sound like Tom Dewey going down a steep grade in reverse, hell-bent-for-election.

That, as a matter of fact, is a fairly apt description of Mr. Eisenhower's candidacy as reflected in his speeches and public renunciations thus far.

L. W. R.

By law, the "pattern pieces" of a trial strike made by the U.S. Mint are now carefully destroyed. In early days, however, such coins were often preserved and thus came into the hands of collectors.
